3 SAILORS POLICE BATTLE

FIGHT ON GOULD

Contest Over Seat to Guide Others.

ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—(Special.)—The fight on the floor of the Senate today was a battle for the right to guide the Senate in the selection of a new member to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Fernald.

The attack was directed today at Arthur R. Gould (Rep., Me.), recently elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Fernald. Although the objection was made to Mr. Gould's election, his qualification for the office was challenged on the strength of his record in the House of Representatives.

Opening Day Session Brief. This was the only display of fireworks in connection with the re-opening of the Senate today for the first session of the Sixty-ninth Congress, which expires on March 4 next.

In their demonstration in the Senate against the new Maine senator, the Democrats had the floor for the first time in a long while. They will make to-day a record for the number of resolutions introduced.

TWO MEXICANS AND 1 OFFICER ARE SHOT DEAD

Squads Lay Siege to Rail Camp.

One policeman was killed, another wounded, and at least one Mexican was shot to death in a battle between the police and half a hundred Mexicans living in box cars in a railroad camp a mile west of Melrose Park late last night.

Police declare a second Mexican was slain, but his body was not found.

The trouble started when a woman's screams for help, mingled with yells and curses of men in a fight in the camp, were heard in a roadhouse on Lake street, some distance away from the Melrose Park police station.

A telephone message was sent the Melrose Park police that a riot was in progress, and Motorcycle Policemen, Lyman J. Stahl, Charles Kolwitz and three others were sent to the scene.

Policeman Shot to Death. The camp is surrounded by prairie and as the policemen approached they were in full view of the Mexicans. As they neared two box cars a volley of revolver shots were directed at the police.

Policeman Stahl fell hit by a bullet and died immediately. Kolwitz fell with a bullet through the arm, but died at the Melrose Park police station.

He is certain that he killed a second man, but only one body was found. Police believe the second man shot down crawled away into the prairie and died there.

Immediately calls were sent to the police station and to nearby towns for police reserves. Chicago, Maywood, Bellwood, Brookfield, and highway police responded. The Chicago police, led by Lieut. Philip Carroll and Sergeant James Kilgore and William Shea, carried tear bombs and rifles.

Route by Tear Bombs. On their arrival at the scene they surrounded the camp. Tear bombs were thrown in the box cars in which the Mexicans had barricaded themselves.

The besieged laborers were soon routed, and as they crawled out from the gas filled cars were captured. Thirty-three of them, including a woman, who, it was revealed, was the one who screamed had attracted attention before the battle, were locked up at the Melrose Park police station.

Policeman Stahl was 35 years old. He had been on the police force only a year. His home was at 142 36th Avenue, Melrose Park. Kolwitz, who was taken to the Oak Park hospital, where it was said his wound is not serious.

Shortly after the routing of the rioters a Mexican, about 35 years of age, carrying a revolver from which five bullets had been fired, was arrested by an Oak Park policeman.

THEIR MARRIAGE ANNULLED, WAIT 3 YEARS, REWED

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—(U. N. J.)—Mary, the nineteen year old daughter of Representative James V. McClintock of Oklahoma, today eloped for a second time with Dick Liebert, organizer in a movie theater.

In the spring of 1925 Mary and Dick Liebert eloped to Upper Marlboro, Md., fifteen miles away, and were married.

Mary being but sixteen, her father had the marriage annulled. But he offered to be reasonable about it. He told Mary and Dick that if, after each other he would not oppose their marriage.

But today Dick, in his roadster, picked up Mary and they drove to Baltimore to be married.

Chaplin Closes Studios to Battle for Children

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 6.—Charlie Chaplin closed down his moving picture studios today and applied himself wholly to his campaign to hold his two children away from his estranged wife.

The comedian's first step involved attorneys' permission to make a second visit to the couple's two children, 2 year old Charles Spencer Jr. and 8 month old Sydney Charlie, who are now in Mrs. Chaplin's keeping in the Beverly Hills cottage of Mrs. Chaplin's grandparents.

According to accepted estimates it is costing the comedian and his financial backers $15,000 a day to shut down the studio and delay the completion of a comedy which Chaplin was shortly to finish when his wife left him last Wednesday.

"Whether I go, there most thou," said Umberto Nobile to his fox terrier, Titano, yesterday. And so the designer of the Italian dirigible, Norge, that flew over the north pole with the Roald Amundsen expedition, picked up his baggage again, walked out of the Blackstone hotel and went to the Congress. For Gen. Nobile has had Titano as a companion for many, many months, even during the flight over the pole last June, and when he was confronted with "No Dogs" sign at the Blackstone and told that the rule couldn't be broken, he simply walked out.

That was the Italian airman's introduction to Chicago yesterday when he came here to arrange for a lecture by the Blackstone hotel. And by the time he was safely in a room at the Congress his temper was apparently more than slightly ruffled. For even before he sought quarters at the Blackstone he had been the center of contention when he stepped off a Michigan Central train.

The reporters asked for an interview. Mr. E. R. Field, president of the club, insisted that Gen. Nobile say nothing. He didn't want him to deliver his lecture in a railroad station, explained. The general was puzzled by the strife and apparently not pleased.

He refused to discuss the dispute with Amundsen as to who was the real leader of the north pole flight.

Marry or Pay Tax, Mussolini to Bachelors

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

(Copyright 1926 by The Chicago Tribune.)

ROME, Dec. 6.—Premier Mussolini by a decree law, approved by the council of ministers, today imposed a tax on all bachelors in Italy between the ages of 25 and 65. The tax goes into effect Jan. 1, 1927.

Unmarried women will not be taxed because Sig. Mussolini insisted that in most cases women were not to blame because they did not have husbands. The tax on male celibacy is another move in the premier's campaign against birth control. The tax is progressive, according to income.

Taxes Go to Mothers. The state intervenes in this matter because one of the most characteristic points of the Fascist state is to give judicial sanction to motherhood and childhood. This institution has now been placed under the control of their own free will," declared the duke.

The proceeds of the bachelor tax will be turned over to the National Institute for the Protection of Motherhood and Childhood. This institution has now been placed under the control of their own free will," declared the duke.

The Illinois senator has been ill at the Home Lawn sanatorium here for several months of prostatic cancer and suffered a sharp relapse within the last two days which caused attending physicians and members of his family to despair of his surviving more than temporarily.

GOV. WOOD LOSES IN FIRST CLASH WITH FILIPINOS

MANILA, Dec. 6.—(U. N. J.)—The clash between Gov. Leonard Wood and Filipino leaders reached an acute stage today when Wood appointed two new directors of the National Coal company. Manuel Queson and Manuel Roxas also named two men for the post. Queson and Roxas were members of the board of control which Wood recently abolished, but they refused to heed the order and still are functioning. The board controls public utilities.

Gov. Wood last today's skirmish for the president of the coal company recognized the Filipino appointments and if Wood's appointees are to be put in office his administration must appeal to the Philippine Supreme court and possibly to the Supreme court of the United States.

Council Group OK's 6 Months Transit Grant

Extension of the surface line franchises for six months to July 1, 1927, past the mayoralty and aldermanic elections next spring, became a virtual certainty yesterday if the companies are willing to accept.

With only one dissenting vote the council will block the move, it was said, as it has the support of the administration. The proposal was sponsored by Ald. Jacob Arvey, one of Mayor Dever's floor leaders, and Corporation Council Bush.

"Have the companies agreed to accept the extension if we do grant it?" Ald. Joseph Smith asked Mr. Bush.

"No, we have not heard from the companies," he replied. "But we are convinced that it is a good thing to protect the rights of the city and that we should go ahead with it."

Wants Company's O. K. First. Ald. A. F. Albert, single handed, fought the proposal. An extension might be wise, he said, but that is no reason for putting the council on record before the companies are heard from. He recalled the council's long summer recess and called the extension "a new way of getting over a campaign hurdle."

Ald. Arvey and Mr. Bush by inference denied politics as the motive. Under present conditions a receiver ship Feb. 1 is certain, they argued, and it is to the city's interest to protect its 55 per cent of the surface lines' net earnings, etc.

The legislature convenes from Jan. 10 to June 1, they pointed out, and it may pass the legislation needed for the consolidation, terminable permit plan of the local transit group.

"That is to say they will give time to go over our heads to Springfield and get what they want," interjected Ald. Albert. He wanted the companies' pledge to negotiate with the city.

Ald. Arvey replied that council action is needed to give the committee authority to proceed with its negotiations.

Hears of Motor Bus Plans. Later in the meeting, Chairman Joseph McDonough brought up the reports that the Chicago Motor Coach company contemplates the installation of 4,000 or more buses after Feb. 1, to compete with the surface lines.

"I am told those back of the bus project plan to go before the Illinois Commerce commission and get a certificate of necessity and convenience," he said. "I think we should be on the alert and serve notice we will fight such a move."

The committee, on Ald. McDonough's suggestion, asked the corporation counsel to submit an opinion showing the illegality of operating the buses. A similar opinion is the basis of a Supreme court case now.

Edward Davidson, vice president of the Chicago Motor Coach company, and Philip Wrigley, Jr., a director, admitted yesterday that the plan to compete with the car lines is being studied.

Subway Report Seen. The transportation committee adjourned to meet Thursday. If then will take up the citizens' committee subway report.

It also will have before it a petition of the new Wells Street District Property Owners' association that the "L" structure in the loop be abolished and subways built immediately.

Karl Eitel, vice president of the Bismarck Hotel company, and also vice president of the association, in a statement yesterday declared subways are a vital economic necessity to the entire loop district. Seventy per cent of the Wells street business men, he said, have pledged themselves as vigorous supporters of the subway movement.

LETTER ASKING HER TO ELOPE BRINGS VERDICT

Members of Both Families Testify.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Prairie du Chien, Wis., Dec. 6.—(Special.)—Fifty minutes after it closed the inquest the coroner's jury today formally charged Erdman Olson with the murder of his sweetheart, Clara Olson.

The verdict ended a day replete with testimony pointing the finger at Erdman. It came after the jury had heard Erdman's last letter to Clara read to them by District Attorney J. S. Earl—a letter so plainly indicating the murder was premeditated that exclamations of amazement and anger could be heard in the courtroom.

Body Found Thursday. Clara Olson's body was taken last Thursday out of a foot deep grave on Battle ridge, a knoll that almost overlooks Erdman's father's farmhouse a quarter of a mile away. She had been missing since Sept. 10, when her father says, shortly after midnight, she slipped out of her home to meet Erdman.

Erdman Olson has been missing since Sept. 27, when he left Oak College at Greenville, Wis., where he was a senior. This was on the day after old Christ Olson, Clara's father, had told Erdman he thought he had done away with the girl and demanded that he get her to write or show herself or he would go to the sheriff.

Doctors, including C. H. Hunting, state pathologist from the University of Wisconsin at Madison, testified at the inquest Saturday that Clara had been beaten to death. They said the whole left side of her skull had been crushed in by terrific blows. They said that some wide, heavy instrument had been used, such as a spade or the broad side of an axe.

Letter Accuses Youth. The damning letter that came back to accuse Erdman today, it was testified, was in his handwriting. It was found tucked into the bosom of the girl when they took her from the grave.

It was dated Ferryville, Wis. Clara was at 5 o'clock in the afternoon of Sept. 8, some ten hours before she quietly walked from her home and down the lane to a waiting automobile. It addressed the girl as "dear friend" and was unsigned.

Tomorrow another letter will be offered as evidence. It was one written by Clara Olson to the parents of Erdman pleading with them to bring about a marriage between their son and herself. It is worded pathetically and in one spot says, "I wish no harm to Erdman."

Sister Saw Letter. Clara's sister, Alice, testified she saw the letter from Erdman to Clara. District Attorney Earl had it spread out between two pieces of clear glass. He handed it to Alice, a quiet, dark-eyed girl with jet hair. The girl looked at it with no visible emotion and said yes, she had seen it before—it was Erdman's handwriting.

"I was there when she got it," Alice said quietly. "I saw her take it out of the envelope. I asked her who it was from and she said it was from Erdman."

Albert Olson and his wife, Anna, parents of Erdman, and their third man, Edwin Knutson, who was an intimate of Erdman and who drove him back to Gale college three days after Clara had vanished, testified. So also did Christ Olson and his son, Bernard.

There was a marked contrast in the testimony of Albert and his household, and Christ and his.

Albert was evasive and nervous and hesitant. He quivered and his eyes shifted. He started his testimony almost in a husky whisper, talking so low he couldn't be heard ten feet.

Albert had been calm and direct, always defensive of Erdman. He lost all that when he took the stand.

Had Girl at School. While he was testifying his wife was downstairs waiting and she revealed for the first time that Erdman had another girl at school to whom he wrote twice a week when he was at school. There was a bundle of her letters to him at home now, she said.

Albert, in his testimony, revealed that Clara had appealed by letter to both himself and his wife, informing them that she was to become a mother, and that Erdman was the father of the child. She had begged that they let

JUDGE REFUSES DRUGGAN, LAKE IMMUNITY BATH

Westbrook May Turn
Against Hoffman.

In vain did Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, erstwhile playboys of the Cook county jail, sing their song of $20,000 bribes and such when they asked contempt proceedings a year ago for their 100 nights outside their cells. Today they must go on trial, under indictment, before Federal Judge Judge FitzHenry, together with Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman and other principals in the historic jail scandal case. Druggan and Lake made a last minute stand yesterday for "justice tempered with mercy." When they sang their song they were inspired by the prospect for immunity. Yesterday they stood there without immunity at the present writing.

Might Testify for the U. S.
After a special hearing, Judge FitzHenry told the boys he wouldn't grant the immunity stuff, although he promised them he would grant them serious consideration, if they again took the stand and tell about their part in the corruption of this county's former lockup force.

The immunity claim was based on the claim that Robert N. Golding, formerly their attorney, had dickered with former Assistant District Attorney John Elliott Byrne, who prosecuted the contempt of court case, for special consideration in exchange for the story of just how they managed to leave the jail at will while under federal sentences of a year each.

The court called Attorney Golding, formerly Mr. Byrne, District Edwin A. Olson was on hand, too.

Says Deal Was Made.
Mr. Golding said that he had told Mr. Byrne that he wouldn't let Druggan and Lake testify unless they were given a deal. He said he went to Judge Wilkerson's chambers with Mr. Byrne and that the jurist said if the boys would testify and convince him that they told the truth they would be given consideration of leniency.

As a result of the understanding, Golding said, the regular order of introducing witnesses was interrupted and Lake, then Druggan, took the stand and revealed their parts in the jail corruption plot.

Mr. Byrne followed Mr. Golding at the hearing yesterday. He said Mr. Golding's testimony was substantially correct, but that he understood the promises of consideration to apply particularly to the contempt of court proceedings, which are apart from the present litigation—a conspiracy indictment growing out of the same alleged jail irregularities.

Won't Have Them Testify.
Then came District Attorney Olson. He said the government didn't need the Druggan and Lake confessions and that those admissions came as an afterthought of panic when the two men perceived they had been hooked.

Mr. Olson told Judge FitzHenry that he had given explicit instructions that under no consideration were the bootleg pair to be placed on the stand as government witnesses.

Assistant District Attorney Hope Thompson, now in charge of the jail scandal prosecution, took the position that even had there been understandings of possible immunity, they could apply only to the contempt matter before Judge Wilkerson. The court and Mr. Thompson both recalled that while Sheriff Hoffman has served 30 days in jail for the contempt, and former Jail Warden Wesley H. Westbrook was locked up for four months, Druggan and Lake never have done any time for the offense and are not now under sentence. Their status still is held in abeyance by Judge Wilkerson.

Westbrook May Turn.
Considerable speculation concerning the case resulted from the proceedings yesterday relative to Westbrook. He withheld his plea pending action of the other defendants and failed to appear in court at the arraignment yesterday morning.

Rumors were circulated that Westbrook planned to enter a plea of guilty and become one of the government's witnesses. Credence was given the rumors when Judge FitzHenry

Actress Loses Decree

JANET BEECHER.

New York, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The decree's report recommending that Dr. Richard Hoffman, neurologist, be awarded a decree of separation from his wife, Janet Beecher, actress, was confirmed today by Supreme Court Justice Lydon.

The order provides that Dr. Hoffman is to have custody of his son, Richard, 8 years old, for nine months of the year and Miss Beecher for the three summer months.

The doctor's suit was based on allegations that his wife was under the influence of her mother, who was a spiritualist and who used spiritualistic writings to prejudice her daughter against him.

asked Prosecutor Thompson if he cared for the forfeiture of Westbrook's bond for failure to appear at the arraignment. Mr. Thompson hastily informed the court he did not desire the forfeiture.

What Westbrook could tell that he has not already told remained a mystery, it was said. The only possibility of his becoming a star witness for the government was found in the guess that he might admit that he received the $20,000 bribe Druggan and Lake testified they gave him and then spun a startling story of how he fell into the bribe.

SUSPEND CHIEF WHO SHOT INN OWNER IN ROW

After a stormy session of the Summit village board last night, it was announced that Avery Woods, chief of the village police force, had been suspended pending an investigation of a charge that he shot and wounded Joseph Renner, proprietor of the Curv inn, a roadside.

E. H. Wilson, president of the board, made the motion for suspension. Trustee William Garrison strenuously objected, asserting that other members of the police force were guilty of "greater atrocities" than Woods and pleading that there be no suspension until an investigation. President Wilson, however, was supported by a majority vote.

Both factions agreed to hold a hearing on the charges tonight. Renner will be visited in the Argo hospital at 8 p. m. and an hour later a mass meeting will be held in the village hall. Charges were made that the police were interested in the liquor traffic in the village.

Woods is alleged to have shot Renner because the latter objected to having his wife kissed by the officer.

CAROL DENIES HE PLOTS COUP TO WIN THRONE

Gives First Statement to The Tribune.

BY LANSING WARREN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
PARIS, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Prince Carol of Roumania, breaking his silence after a year in exile, tonight in an exclusive declaration to THE TRIBUNE for America and the newspaper Mattin for France denied all intention of attempting a coup d'etat to regain the throne he renounced or in any manner assailing the stability of the monarchy of Roumania.

Following his statement from Bucharest with Magda Lupescu, a red haired beauty, for whom he deserted his wife, Princess Helen of Greece, Prince Carol has maintained silence.

The persistence of the rumors which have originated at Bucharest and other European capitals caused him to address himself to THE TRIBUNE to rectify what he declares is a mass of misstatements.

"After Carol's renunciation of his royal rights the Roumanian parliament declared his five year old son, Prince Michael, heir to the throne now held by King Ferdinand, who is ill, and created a regency of three to rule while the prince is a minor.

Prince Carol's Statement.
"For a year I have held my peace," Prince Carol declared, "because I believed the truth would out and because I did not consider every sensational story appearing worthy of denial. My voluntary silence, however, may have given the impression that I admitted the foundation of all these rumors maliciously woven about me, whereas my silence simply was the result of comprehensible reserve on my part."

"Please do not labor under any false impressions. I am not going to break the silence to reveal any sensational secret. The same considerations which formerly forced me to observe a certain reserve govern me still, but require also that I should make certain definite corrections to the reports which have been circulated."

"For some time the rumor has reappeared that I was preparing a coup d'etat—a rumor which obtained credence in many circles that should have been better informed. I emphatically deny all intention of making a coup d'etat."

Ferdinand's Intention First.
Prince Carol continued as follows: "The instance with which this possibility has been discussed lately should be food for thought for every serious person who is informed about Roumania's needs and should make known that certain interests there are anxious to cast their lot with such a coup sooner or later. It is not for me to demonstrate. I could never become an adversary of the monarchial idea, as certain sources have attempted to prove. I know too well my country's interests to undertake any adventure which could injure or create difficulties for my sovereign."

"At all times I have attempted, and I believe I have not failed, to hold myself above political parties in order to preserve my free judgment and to permit free play to the legal institutions which should not and can not be subservient to any party interest."

Relations with Parents Never Broken.
"As regards my family relationships, because of my private character they should remain outside the discussion. The fact that these matters have been dragged in in all the more shocking in view of the fact that the excellent relationship I have always maintained with my parents has never ceased."

Prince Carol closed with a mention of his pleasant memories of his visit to the United States.

"As I am seeking the good offices of THE TRIBUNE in making this announcement, I take this occasion to express my most cordial sympathy to the country I was lucky enough to visit and learn how noble are the American people," he said.

HEIRESS ELOPER IN IOWA WINS DIVORCE IN PARIS

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, Dec. 6.—"Yes, my divorce will be granted Friday and I will go home on Dec. 14 about the Levantine," Margaret Shotwell Arnold, youthful heiress of Omaha, Neb., said tonight.

The decree will be granted just one year after her sensational marriage to Capt. James Wylie Arnold of the United States army, following a wildfire courtship and elopement to Glenwood, Ia., on Dec. 29, 1925.

Mrs. Arnold says she will resume her maiden name, under which she has been giving concerts in Paris, where she has been a piano student of Wagner and Dwyer.

Mrs. Arnold is a prominent figure in Paris as a result of her recitals at the American Women's club and students' apogee reunions, as well as from her participation in the gay social life of the French capital.

ORLANDO SCOTT, ALIENIST, TAKEN FOR MISCONDUCT

Dr. Orlando F. Scott, alienist, who testified in the Leopold-Loeb and other noted criminal cases, was arrested last night in his office, 111 West Jackson boulevard, on a charge of adultery.

He was released on bonds of $1,000. Several days ago Dr. Scott was taken in a raid led by his wife, Mrs. Liberty Scott, on a south side flat. At the time it was asserted that the alienist and a nurse, Margaret Keegan, were found in the place. The case will be heard in the morals court today.

Earlier in the day Dr. Scott had filed for divorce against his wife, whose home is at 3333 West Jackson boulevard. He charged cruelty.

FERDINAND GOES UNDER THE KNIFE; FEAR FOR HIS LIFE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BUCHAREST, Dec. 6.—King Ferdinand was operated on at 10 o'clock this morning at Cotroceni palace by the celebrated surgeon, Prof. Henri Hartmann, of the French Academy of Medicine, and, according to the doctor's bulletin issued at noon, "the king's condition remains favorable."

The king's condition remains favorable. When the doctor's decision to resort to the knife, which had been repeatedly deferred pending the arrival of the queen, became known, the Roumanian court went into virtual mourning, and little hope is held for the king's recovery.

A family council, composed of Queen Marie and her daughters, Queen Marie of Yugoslavia, former Queen Elizabeth of Greece and Princess Helena, and Prince Nicholas, decided today not to invite former Crown Prince Carol to return to Roumania.

Collect Funds for Kin of "Unknown Soldier"

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Stories of the "deserted circumstances of relatives of the 'unknown soldier'" parted several Des Moines residents from small sums over the week-end. Two young men are being sought by police on complaint of the losers.

New York, Dec. 6.—(U.N.I.)—The blizzard that has lashed the eastern half of the country for twenty-four hours, causing twenty-one deaths, throwing lake and ocean going steamers off their schedules, and hampering land travel, will continue until noon tomorrow, according to weather bureau forecasts. In New York City 23,000 absealers fought to keep main traffic arteries open after a seven inch snow.

Deaths in the East.
Snow, sleet or rain is predicted by the weather bureau for today, and tomorrow is expected to be unsettled. The forecast says that there will be little change in temperature. Figures compiled yesterday showed that 6.7 inches of snow have fallen since Oct. 1, the greatest amount recorded here in the same period since 1880.

It is well to be critical in your acceptance of food and to take its quality for granted only when the whole environment of a restaurant seems without question to bear out the assumption of quality.

U. S. FARMERS RALLY TO CRUSH FOES OF RELIEF

Open Sessions Here in Militant Mood.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

American agriculture in forty-five states opened its annual convention yesterday in Chicago with a swirling background of politics bearing on the presidential campaign of 1936.

A relief program which will put the farmer on a plane of "economic equality" with the factory worker and city dweller is the problem with which the 1,500 delegates who assembled for the initial sessions at the Sherman hotel will wrestle for three days.

The formation of an ice crusher to get measures through congress is what the leaders are talking of. "Surplus control" is the main item in the program.

Aggressive Role Urged.

The farmers were exhorted to assume an "aggressive role" in the opening address of Sam H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau federation. The keynote of the assembly, both in the spoken word and in the undercurrents, is that farming should formulate its program and then start swinging the big stick to put it across.

Subterranean currents played beneath the first day's sessions, which were of a philosophical calm. Outside the hall, farm leaders weighed conjectures as to whether the meeting will see a linking up of the west and the south, the corn and hog belt with the cotton belt, in a concentrated effort to get relief measures.

Surplus of Cotton.

A whopping big cotton crop and low prices are held to have changed sentiment among southern farmers, who before were cool toward the surplus handling ideas of the corn belt. Whether the two great areas will be able to come together on a relief program is the big item of interest. It is expected to come to a head Wednesday when the formal resolutions are adopted. Some of the leaders find significance in that the chairman of the resolutions committee is Edward A. O'Neal of Florence, Ala., vice president of the Farm Bureau federation.

The cooperative phase of agriculture and the matter of advanced standards of living on the farm are outstanding features of the meeting. The federation is planning to conduct a tour of Europe by 500 American farmers starting July 30. The pilgrims will spend little time in Paris cafes, but will study farm methods in Denmark, famous for its cooperatives; England, Scotland, Holland, the island of Jersey and other places.

Lowden Has Honor Place.

Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, who is listed among the presidential possibilities of 1936, has the great place of honor on the program, the final big address Wednesday morning. He will give his views on the agricultural problem. Political observers for months have been depicting him as the favorite candidate among a large part of the agricultural west.

Also a liaison with big manufacturing and industry, especially of the east, is afforded at the convention. Magnus W. Alexander of New York, president of the national industrial conference board, was one of the headliners yesterday. He said it is time for business leaders of America to put their brains and resources to the task of placing agriculture on a sound basis. The recent study made by the industrial conference of the farm problem is reported to have done much to allay the feeling out in the corn belt that eastern business and industry are unsympathetic towards the western farmer.

So that in the caldron many things are stewing in the convention which before adjournment Wednesday may tend to influence political history.

In the corridors and anterooms, leaders pointed out that interest is as great as a year ago, when President Coolidge opened the gathering with a speech that, to put it mildly, was not received with three rousing cheers out in the corn and bacon zone. Politicians have accounted this speech as the genesis of the political upset in Iowa, where Brookhart's victory over the late Senator Cummings was largely construed as due to a desire to register resentment against a lack of sympathy on the part of the east.

Muscle thons also is hovering around in the background. There may be a controversy as to whether the delegates should endorse one of the bidders for the project or should simply endorse the idea of development, leaving it to congress as to the disposal of fertilizing making power.

"Lack of stabilization is at the bottom of much of the troubles of agriculture," President Thompson said in opening the three days' assembly.

"The most recent statement from the national industrial conference board says that the agricultural population, comprising in 1925 and 1926 about 27 per cent of our total population, receives today only 7 1/2 per cent of the total national income.

"There is no longer any difference of opinion as to the immediate need for adequately handling and dealing with agricultural surpluses.

"The stabilization of agriculture depends upon making the supply of basic farm crops balance with the demand in our most important markets, at a fair and reasonable constant price."

CO-OPERATION, CRY

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Twelve hundred farmers and authorized delegates from forty-five states attended the opening session of the American Farm Bureau federation's eight annual meeting at the Sherman hotel yesterday. Outstanding leaders from 1,800 counties are here—men and women from the north, south, east, west and middle west.

Nearly seven hundred at the bureau meeting attended the luncheon held in the grand ballroom of the Sherman hotel, where every item on the menu was supplied by farmers' cooperative marketing organizations.

After the guests had eaten the cooperative food Frank Evans, general marketing counsel of the federation, introduced fourteen of the sixty cooperative leaders for 100 word speeches. Here some of the "building stones of co-operation" laid down by the women and men at the cooperative luncheon are set forth:

O. E. Bradford, former president of the Farm Bureau federation—By cooperative buying and selling farmers themselves can lower the costs of production; lower the costs of distribution; and increase the price of their products—the three things most needed to make farming profitable.

George R. Wicker, Illinois Agricultural association—"Cooperation provides an ideal business relationship between those who are engaged in similar productive enterprises."

H. C. Taylor, economist of Northwestern university—"In these days of commercial agriculture farmers must learn to work together or be ill-paid servants of those in other occupations. The farmers are getting an inadequate share of the national income. This is because those in the city industries and occupation work under the company name. Competition Limited, while farmers operate under the name, Competition Unlimited."

GERMANY'S BEER DIET 75 QUARTS; SAVINGS CLIMB

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—The business and financial outlook in Germany is bright, according to the second annual report of the Dawes reparations commission experts, who claim "business conditions in Germany in general now have become easier than at any time since the stabilization began."

The savings of the country have increased. The profits and savings of his enterprises do not show in the statistics because they endeavored to replenish their working capital, but the deposits in the savings offices throughout Germany have increased by about $314,000,000 in the twelve months ending Sept. 30, 1925, and then they stood at about 14 per cent of the total before the war."

Through the creation of native capital is progressing, the main financing still is being done through external loans.

"In slightly more than two years since the experts' plan went into effect the German capital issues placed abroad amounted in round figures to $255,000,000," according to the report. "About one-quarter of this sum represents the nominal amount of the loan taken up under the provisions of the Dawes plan."

A large part of the loans were obtained in the United States. The German official figures endeavor to show that the prices of basic commodities in Germany are comparatively low, but they are misleading. The German standard of living is much lower than that of the American worker, and furthermore, German statisticians usually list wholesale prices, thus distorting the figures for the actual cost of living.

75 Quarts of Beer Per Head. Nevertheless, an understanding of the improvement in living conditions can be gleaned from the figures in the report of the experts showing that, for instance, despite the tremendous wave of joblessness, the annual consumption of meat per capita, which dropped to 51 kilograms (59 pounds) in 1925, has risen to 47 kilograms (103 pounds); compared to 52 kilograms (114 pounds) per capita a year in 1913. The consumption of beer, which Germany does not consider alone as an alcoholic factor but also a nutritive element, has increased to 75 quarts this year, while before the war, every German listed in the statistics indulged in 102 quarts of the national beverage. In 1923 the average German restricted himself to 45 quarts per year.

The increased consumption of beer spells affluence to the reparations commission's account of German controlled revenues. The beer tax yielded the government 198,000,000 gold marks ($49,000,000) in 1924 and is expected to yield more than 232,000,000 marks ($58,250,000) this year. This tax, with the funds derived from the customs, tobacco tax, sugar tax and spirits monopoly, will yield 50 per cent more than Germany must pay to the reparations commission from the budgetary income, which naturally forms only part of the payments—the bulk of these coming from the railroads and transport tax.

Merchandise Balance Favorable. The German merchandise balance, which was heavily adverse in the first year of the Dawes plan administration, proved "moderately favorable this year." The period from Oct. 31, 1925 until Oct. 31 this year shows a favorable balance of about $16,000,000 gold marks ($4,000,000), while the previous year the balance was against the country, due to the fact that at the close of 1924 the stocks of foodstuffs and raw materials were exhausted and the first credits flowing into the country were used for the replenishment of these stocks.

The German trade balance shows an excess of exports in trade with eleven principal countries and an excess of imports with eight—the latter including the United States, the greatest provider of food and raw materials for Germany.

Striving to Cut Prices. The most serious problem German industry has to contend with is the reduction of prices. "The efforts made by German industry to solve this problem have been mainly along two lines," says the report. "The first was that of correcting and improving internal organization methods and management and the second was that of the consolidation of plants, eliminating unprofitable units. It is evident that there has been an extensive house cleaning."

Nevertheless, much remains to be done to cut prices when it is realized that in August the price of wheat at New York was $11 less than the Berlin price per metric ton. This difference was reduced somewhat in the last three months. Despite the "encouraging recovery" and improvements listed in the report, the agent general fears "there still are setbacks to be expected. But it is already clear that the turning point has been reached not merely in the reconstruction of Germany but also, in a larger sense, in the reconstruction of Europe, which the experts had in mind when they devised the plan."

Customs Barriers Hurt Europe. Agent General Gilbert sees in the customs barriers erected throughout Europe impediments to progress not only on account of the increase of cost engendered by the customs duties but the loss in time, labor, and transport efficiency.

"The many barriers against the free interchange of goods still are regarding Europe's reconstruction," according to Mr. Gilbert. "The expansion of the foreign trade of Germany, as well as that of its neighbors, will depend to a considerable extent upon the degree to which these barriers may be removed."

Still more important in the eyes of the experts whose duty it is to lead war-torn Europe back to normalcy is stabilization. "Until this is achieved it is idle to expect that the trade of the world will develop along natural lines."

SUPREME COURT HOLDS FALL FOR ANOTHER TRIAL

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

(Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—(Special.)—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, will face another jury next month for his alleged betrayal of the public trust in giving the naval reserve oil lands over to exploitation in 1921.

With the conspiracy trial in which he and Edward L. Doheny are the defendants now entering its last evidential stage, the Supreme court of the United States today upheld the validity of the conspiracy indictment against Fall and Harry F. Sinclair, in connection with the Teapot Dome scandal.

Government counsel announced that the case would be retried soon after the holidays.

While the present case centers around an alleged bribe, or loan, of $100,000 from Doheny to Fall, as oil contracts in which Fall had a directing voice were pending, the Sinclair case involves $225,000 in Liberty bonds alleged to have been traced to Fall's account in western banks shortly after the Sinclair leases were executed.

Chapter Never Disclosed.
The manipulation of these leases and bonds forms a chapter in intrigue, financial and political, that has never been entirely disclosed, and the Sinclair trial promises evidence of a sensational nature.

Congress at the last session came to the aid of the special prosecutors in this case by passing the so-called Walsh bill, which stopped further appeals in the district courts and also made it possible to get consular service of subpoenas upon witnesses who had evaded service by leaving the country.

Two oil men, H. M. Blackmer, president of the Midwest Refining company, and James E. O'Neill, president of the Prairie Oil company, will be sought particularly by the government under this new process. The law provides that failure to respond carries a penalty of a $100,000 fine. Several prominent oil men were not available as witnesses in the civil suit in this case in Cheyenne and will now be called into this criminal case. Part of this conspiracy, it is charged, was consummated on Canadian soil through division of profits of the so-called Continental Trading company.

Await Return of Wilbur.
Admiral John K. Robinson, retired, was on the witness stand for the greater part of today's session of the Fall-Doheny case, undergoing cross-examination at the hands of Owen J. Roberts, government counsel. The dispute over the navy department's secret information regarding a war scare in the Pacific in 1921 was postponed until the return of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur from New York.

The session today was shortened a little, due to the continued illness of Mr. Doheny, who appeared in court with his infected arm in a sling.

Admiral Robinson stuck to his guns as to the wisdom of the navy policy in putting a great amount of oil in storage in Hawaii in 1921, making plans for national defense of a military nature while the arms conference, which was supposed to guarantee peace in the Pacific, was meeting only a few blocks away. The navy department went ahead, secretly, without paying any attention to the Harding-Hughes efforts and the Pacific talk of the far eastern delegates.

Defense Plans "Good Policy."
This was, and still is, a good policy for this government, according to Robinson, who also insisted that the Doheny leases were advantageous for the government. He was asked if he would have entered into these leases if he had known that they were worth $100,000,000 to Doheny, instead of the half million which he and former Secretary Denby thought they were worth, and what he would have done about it if he had known of the financial transaction between Fall and Doheny. He hesitated and said something about "a lot of things might have been different," but was not allowed to answer further, over objection of his counsel.

Robinson became confused over the preferential rights given the Doheny companies in the contracts under which the navy was to get its tanks and oil storage in Hawaii. He quoted Denby as saying that this part of the contract "did not mean anything" and that the future leases could be thrown open to competition.

It did not occur to Robinson at the time of the signing of the contract that Fall was being given the power to fix the terms with Doheny, and that competition was made impossible.

"That contract meant the leasing of a vast portion of naval reserve No. 1 and left it to the secretary of the interior to fix the terms with Doheny," he was asked.

"Yes, I learned more about that later," he replied.

originally brought to his attention by Fall, and the final conference, fixing the contracts and leases of Dec. 11, 1925, was a pure business affair, he said. He did not regard Doheny at that time as inspired by patriotism.

See $50,000,000 Return.
Robinson said he thought the government would get about $50,000,000 out of the Doheny partnership before the thing was over, but was uncertain just where it was to come from.

"Right now we are getting a 10 per cent cut from Doheny under any other price," he said.

He quoted Denby as saying, early during the leading negotiations, that "oil leases were full of dynamite and he did not want to have anything to do with it."

A letter was introduced to show Robinson kept members of congress in ignorance of what was going on, refusing them information. He admitted that the Pearl Harbor tanks were plainly visible, high from the ground, that there was no secret about their building, with oriental labor employed, and that the whole naval base is surrounded by private property.

GROW WITH THE TRIBUNE IN 1926

Choose your piano as the artists do

UNLIKE in their racial characteristics, in temperament, in their very natures, the foremost of the world's pianists may disagree widely in their interpretations of any particular masterpiece as in their preference for one or another of the famous composers.

Yet, in their choice of a piano, the great artists, DePachmann, Bachaus, Gieseking, Carreras, Casella, Boguslawski, Cecile de Horvath, and scores of others are of one mind and opinion. All use the Baldwin.

How shall so remarkable a fact be explained?

There can be only one answer. Whatever the particular conceptions of one virtuoso, no matter how his standards of piano excellence may differ from those of other geniuses, each finds the Baldwin the perfect instrument for the expression of his art.

For the reason that no one artist, however gifted, combines in his personality the characteristics and talents of all other pianists, none is able alone to exhaust the resources of the Baldwin. No matter how distinctive his technique, its intimate response transcends his utmost demands.

Typical of thousands of efforts to describe the Baldwin are these words of Vladimir de Pachmann, "It cries when I feel like crying, it sings when I feel like singing. It responds—like a human being—to every mood. I love the Baldwin piano."

But the pre-eminence of the Baldwin rests not alone upon its success in meeting every demand of the leading pianists. For whatever other purpose a piano is called upon to serve, the Baldwin is proved to have no equal.

In choosing the Baldwin as official piano for the use of its artists, the Chicago Civic Opera Company confirms the individual preference of those idols of the operatic world, Polacco, Chaliapin, Lucrezia Bori, Rosa Raisa, Rimini, Claudia Muzio, Richard Bonelli, Cyrena Van Gordon, Florence Easton, Edward Johnson and many more. Every requirement imposed upon a piano by the peculiarities of vocal music is met in the perfect accompaniment the Baldwin provides for voices of every range—the most perfectly trained voices in America.

But not all music is either sacred, classical or operatic. What of the Baldwin's contribution to lighter entertainment? Paul Whiteman is easily the foremost exponent of ultra modern music. "I have chosen the Baldwin as the official piano of the Paul Whiteman Orchestra," says this international favorite, and adds, "I have known the Baldwin for many years and have always found it remarkable for its purity of tone."

At the Paris Exposition in 1900, at St. Louis in 1904 and at London in 1914 international juries of the highest authority awarded to the Baldwin the Grand Prize, thereby placing it, in the words of LeMonde Musical, "at the head of the artistic pianos of the world."

In choosing their piano as the artists do, America's leading radio stations (sixteen in Chicago alone) pay the rarest of compliments to the talented singers and pianists frequently featured on their programs. At the same time, they have won from the listening millions the highest measure of appreciation.

The man or woman planning upon a musical career will, for the soundest of personal reasons, be guided by the judgment of the world's great artists in selecting his or her piano.

Facing the same problem of choice, the woman at the head of a home will ask herself several questions. Will the Baldwin, better than any other piano, realize all my ambitions and answer my every need through all the years to come? Will it meet every demand of my children as they grow and progress with their musical training?

Will the Baldwin foster my pride in my home and its furnishings? Will it contribute more than any other to the spirit of happiness, contentment and cordial hospitality? Will it always evoke exclamations of instant recognition and delight from my guests when played by them or for their entertainment?

Because she will find that the answer to every one of these questions is yes, she will choose, as the artists do, the Baldwin for her home.

ROBBER SLAYS SHOP OWNER ON STATE STREET

Crimes in Loop Keep the Police on Jump.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Arnold Bondow, H. Gaston, and Frank Gough, burglary, sentenced to 1 year each in the Bridgwell by Judge Emanuel Eiler.

David Walker, murder, sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary by Judge P. L. Sullivan.

Charles Cooper, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridgwell by Judge Jacob Hopkins.

Robbers and other criminals did their work almost openly in and near the loop yesterday, the major happenings being these:

1. David Weinstein, 40 years old, pawnbroker at 903 South State street, was killed in his store by a Negro robber and his daughter was struck over the head with a revolver.

2. Three bandits obtained $2,000 by forcing Leo Murray, 219 Mildred street, to open the safe of the Newmark shoe store, 238 South State street.

3. Burglars obtained $2,000 in cash and $1,500 in merchandise from the Wolf Drug company's store at 346 South Wabash avenue.

Catch Two Robbing Jeweler.

4. Two young bandits were caught in the act of robbing Jacob Halpern in his jewelry store at 3934 West Twenty-sixth street.

5. Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker answered a complaint of the Burns & Granite store at Dearborn and Monroe streets, which suffered two burglaries in a month. The chief said three men had been arrested for one of these crimes, but had not yet been indicted.

6. There was no answer to the complaint of a citizen who wrote as follows:

"On Thanksgiving day we reported a robbery at our house on the Fillmore street station. The officer who answered the phone requested no details, no officer called at our house, and so far as we know nothing whatever has been done in the matter. This being our first experience with the police department, we are writing to ask if this is the customary way of handling such matters."

Girl Tells of Killing.

The murder of Weinstein occurred shortly after noon. Jeanette, 16 year old daughter of the slain pawnbroker, said she and her father were behind the counter when a Negro came in and asked to be shown some watches.

As Weinstein reached for a tray the Negro flashed a revolver and ordered Weinstein to put up his hands.

"Father was so surprised he didn't move," Jeanette said. "Then the man fired and I screamed. I saw him coming toward me with the revolver upraised. I don't remember any more."

She did not recover consciousness for some time after she was taken to St. Luke's hospital. She had a severe scalp wound and for a time it was feared there might be a skull fracture. Her father was pronounced dead when taken to the hospital.

Robbery at Shoe Store.

The robbery at the Newmark shoe store was committed a few minutes after Murray had opened the store. The safe contained Saturday's receipts. After compelling Murray to open it for them, the robbers tied him with telephone wire and left him in a rear room.

A. R. Wolff, an executive of the drug company, discovered the burglary at his store upon opening it in the morning. The combination had been knocked off the safe and its contents were gone. Perfumes, jewelry, and other merchandise were also missing and the burglars had removed three cases of whiskey from a vault, but for reasons of their own did not carry them away.

Two Caught at Store.

At the Halpern jewelry store the robbers caught were Frank Maltin, 23 years old, of the Mills hotel and Peter Krissanki, 19 years old, 15 South Morgan street. They were captured as they leveled revolvers at Halpern's head, and their captors were Lieut. Edward Fergus and Detectives Daniel Bennett, John Nick, and James O'Laughlin. An accomplice escaped.

1926 AUTO TOLL IN COOK COUNTY MOUNTS TO $20

The Cook county motor toll for 1926 was raised to $20 yesterday when two deaths were reported.

John Kanner, 49 years old, 7534 Grove avenue, died of injuries received when he was struck by a truck at 75th street and Rhodes avenue. James Dwyer, 5514 South Halsted street, the truck driver, was taken into custody.

Miss Anna Polinek, 23 years old, 4210 West Van Buren street, was killed when she was struck by a taxicab after the cab had struck and caromed off a police car at Harrison street and Keeler avenue. The cab was driven by James Fuller, 2938 Carroll avenue. Emil Ridinger, 22 years old, of Wheaton, drove into a freight train in the darkness and snow of Sunday night and was killed. He was driving to Dwight, Ill., from Wheaton when the accident occurred. His fiancée, Miss Regina Stephens, 18 years old, who was with him, was only slightly hurt.

KILLED ON RAILWAY BRIDGE.

Annie Schaefer, 61, a separator, who lived on the west bank of the Calumet river at 120th street, was fatally injured late yesterday when he was struck by a Chicago, South Shore and North Branch Electric railroad train while crossing the railroad bridge near his home.

A Thought for Today

THE INVESTMENT SEASON is fast approaching. Probably in no other months of the year is the demand for investment securities greater than in December and January. Millions of dollars now deposited in savings banks as well as other millions represented by business surpluses, dividends or maturing bonds, will find their way into new investments. The same condition existed last year and in previous years. It will be repeated again next year. Some of this money will be placed in safe and sound investments yielding a fair but certain return. Part of this immense harvest of dollars will go into securities, more or less of a speculative nature, where the investor is willing to risk his capital for a yield somewhat higher than the current market rate of interest. Vast sums will seek short cuts to fortune with the usual results.

Will the hopes and ambitions of these investors be fulfilled? What will be the status of their 1926 investments at the end of next year, or in two or three years? The man who observes caution and looks to safety rather than high yield will be as serene as ever. He will collect his interest regularly and the capital at maturity. But what of the others? This is "food for thought."

Large Oversubscription of Five Per Cent Bond Issue

AN ANNOUNCEMENT of particular interest to investors in general appeared in the newspapers throughout the nation that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey will retire its Seven Per Cent Preferred Stock and issue more than One Hundred Million Dollars of Five Per Cent Bonds. The Seven Per Cent Stock was issued shortly after the close of the War, when conditions justified a high rate, but now that easier money prevails the Directors deemed it advisable to take advantage of the present situation. That their judgment in this respect has been verified is evidenced by the newspaper statement that "The bankers have been deluged with applications for the bonds, assuring a huge oversubscription of the issue." The italics are ours, as the statement emphasizes that a Five Per Cent rate with high-grade security is considered an excellent yield by wise and conservative investors.

Suggestions for December and January Investments

BELOW are given brief details of three very attractive issues of First Mortgage Real Estate Notes. The greater portion of these issues has been sold, but there are still available some of the notes. The security in each case is so attractive that the yield, Five Per Cent, should appeal to investors having funds available in the next six weeks.

Struggle for Mundelein

Leonard Marshall, 21, a student at the Armour Institute of Technology, battled with a bandit last night in the residence of Cardinal J. J. Sheedy, at North and North La Salle streets, and was the victor.

A minute or two after the bandit had been shot, the bandit was taken to the hospital. The bandit was taken to the hospital. The bandit was taken to the hospital.

Then the robber, tall, Max Letts, 19 years old, took refuge in his car, and was taken to the hospital. The bandit was taken to the hospital.

He seized the wrist of the man who tried to bring him down. The bandit was taken to the hospital. The bandit was taken to the hospital.

BANDIT SEIZED AFTER BATTLE WITH STUDENT

Struggle for Gun Near Mundelein Home.

Leonard Marshall, 26 year old student at the Armour Institute of Technology, battled with an armed, intoxicated robber last night in front of the residence of Cardinal Mundelein, State parkway and North avenue, and with the aid of luck and two policemen won out.

A minute or two before, Marshall, sitting in his car, had been captured by the robber and informed that he was to be chauffeur while his captor staged other stickups. But as they approached the State street entrance to Lincoln park Marshall applied the brakes to his car and grappled with the man.

Fight for Weapon.
He seized the wrist of the bandit, who tried to bring his revolver into position. But Marshall managed to keep the muzzle pointed downward and three bullets that were discharged passed through the floor of the car.

A few seconds more and the bandit wrested his pistol free and pointed it at Marshall. He pulled the trigger three times. But all the bullets had been discharged and Marshall was unarmed.

Then the robber, later identified as Max Letts, 19 years old, 4615 Wrightwood avenue, swung the door open and leaped out of the car just as Lincoln park policeman Fred Parsons, who had heard the reports, came dashing up with drawn revolver.

Letts ran west on North avenue to Clark street, with the pursuing policeman firing as he followed. The bandit took cover in an alleyway near the Palm hotel, where Parsons and Policemen Lawrence O'Keefe and Michael Brennan of the Hudson avenue station found him crouching in a nest of ash barrels.

Holds Up Others.
The bandit's career began at Schiller and Dearborn streets. There he halted Wade J. Bean, colored, of 4609 Lawrence avenue, and took $2.50. Robert Erasmus of 1108 North State street was also robbed of a small amount of money. Marshall, who lives at 7434 Harvard avenue, was seated in his car on the opposite side of the street. He was waiting for Albert Richards, a friend, who had gone into a house and witnessed the holdups.

It was then that Letts, seeing him, walked across, pointed his revolver at Marshall, and took $5 from him, after which he ordered him to act as chauffeur.

Tall Flats May Invade S. Side Residence District

One more old residence district will be invaded by new high class apartment and hotel buildings under a zoning ordinance recommended yesterday by the city council committee on buildings. The ordinance provides for changing the maximum building height from 98 to 132 feet in the district bounded by South Shore drive, Lake Park avenue, 71st, and 79th streets. The change was sponsored by Ald. R. A. Woodhull [7th].

HUBBARD CLAIMS ANNE CALDWELL LOVED ANOTHER

Pittsburgh, Dec. 6.—(AP)—John W. Hubbard, wealthy Pittsburgh manufacturer who is being sued for $500,000 by Miss Anne Caldwell, will seek to prove that no engagement existed and that the plaintiff had made the remark: "You can get money from a man without marrying him."

The defense was outlined by Rody P. Marshall, attorney for Hubbard, in his opening statement to a federal court jury today, after Miss Caldwell had closed her case by presenting depositions by W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, and others. The defendant also was called to the stand in an effort to show he is worth $5,000,000.

Marshall told the jury that Hubbard would show that Miss Caldwell told him she liked Norman Bel Geddes, New York stage scenic designer, and motion picture director, better than Hubbard. It would be shown, he said, that on route to California, where she went to enter the movies, traveling west on the same train with Geddes, she stopped off at Pittsburgh and informed Hubbard she would call it "quits" if he would pay off a $2,000 mortgage on her parents' farm in Chester county, Pennsylvania.

HOUSE MORTGAGED, KILLS SELF.
Because a mortgage on his house was due, Leo Peschke, 44 years old, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself in his home, 8901 Kenosha avenue. His wife told the police that Peschke, a grocer, had worried himself into a state of temporary insanity over his finances.

McANDREW NOT THE ONLY 'ALIEN' BACKERS SHOW

Many Officials Not Born in Chicago.

Sept. William McAndrew, classified by Ald. Leo M. Briske (Forty-fifth), chairman of the schools committee of the city council, and other champions of home town talent, as an alien because of his former residence in New York, made a few guarded remarks yesterday concerning the current school controversy. Defenders of the superintendent also came forward with a list of prominent city officials, giving their dates and places of birth as a commentary on the issue. "Chicago is for Chicagoans."

The investigation by the school committee was started apparently to review school problems in connection with the appointment by Mayor Dever of three new school board members and the reappointment of another. It has developed, however, into an attack on the superintendent and an attempt to pledge the appointees to oust Mr. McAndrew when his term expires on Feb. 1, 1928.

McAndrew Unperturbed.
The superintendent yesterday was apparently unperturbed in his discussion of his attitude. "This thing," he said, "has been going on ever since I came here. I had been in Chicago only a month when it was discovered that I was a foreigner, having come from New York. Since then New York has been linked with my name as a term of opprobrium."

"The investigations have all been conducted on the same plane. I have been given no bill of requirements to fill out and no specific educational policies to defend."

But the superintendent showed himself not unwilling to answer the charge of alienism.
Says His Chicago Years Are 35.
"I have been in Chicago altogether seven years," he said. "Since things move five times as fast in Chicago as elsewhere, those seven years amount to thirty-five actual years. That is long enough to absorb the Chicago atmosphere."

The scouting of a group of Mr. McAndrew's supporters on the home town question—an inquiry conducted without the superintendent's knowledge—produced the following statistics, showing place of birth and date of birth:

William E. Dore, mayor, Woburn, Mass., 1862.

Francis X. Busch, corporation counsel, Detroit, 1879.

Mary McDowell, welfare commissioner, Cincinnati, 1864.

H. A. Collins, superintendent of police, Chicago, 1860.

H. N. Berdoss, health commissioner, Berlin, Germany, 1882.

A. J. Gernak, president of county board, Cassin, Illinois, 1873.

L. S. Anderson, alderman, Petersburg, Va., 1878.

1878.
Guy Gorman, alderman, Terre Haute, Ind., 1878.
Stanley Adamkiewicz, alderman (Sixth), schools committee, Poland, 1875.
Berthold Cresson, alderman (Sixth), schools committee, New York, 1880.
Robert E. Harbo, alderman, Crockett, Tenn., Tennessee, 1870.
Wiley W. Mills, alderman, Clinton, Mich., 1880.

States His Position.
Asked if he would make a fight to retain his position, Mr. McAndrew replied: "I did not petition the school board or the city for the superintendency. I came here on invitation."

He intimated that he might refuse to go before the schools committee if they should request him to do so.

"I am responsible to the board of education and to that body alone," he said.

BURNED TO DEATH.

ST. LAWRENCE ROUTE FOR CANAL

Advices Congress Against All-America Plan.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—A comparison of some of the principal features of the St. Lawrence and New York routes from the great lakes to the sea, which was prepared by Gen. Jadwin, chief of engineers, is given below:

Comparison of Two Routes for Lakes to the Atlantic Waterway

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Cost of 25 foot channel with 1,845,000 horsepower initially installed, $350,100,000 to.....	$385,500,000	No power
Cost of 25 foot channel with 5,000,000 horsepower in- stalled, $620,000,000 to.....	$650,000,000	No power

$20,000, to be borne mutually by Canada and the United States, as compared with $506,000,000 for the great lakes-Hudson river route, and the former will afford better relief for the middle west and is a better investment for the United States as a navigation proposition if mutually satisfactory arrangements for its construction can be consummated.

Fog and War Peril Negligible. Gen. Jadwin pointed out that, while ultimately 5,000,000 horsepower could be developed in hydro-electric plants on the St. Lawrence river, the power to be developed from the New York canal is negligible. He asserted that the number of bridges, locks, and miles of restricted waterway were much less on the St. Lawrence than over the New York route.

"Icebergs and fogs favor the great lakes-Hudson route," Gen. Jadwin said, "but are not controlling features, as an enormous commerce already crosses the ocean to and from Montreal."

"The military advantages of the New York waterway are not sufficiently great to affect the consideration of a matter involving hundreds of millions of dollars. It will also be noted that key points on both routes are so close to the border as to make them subject to possible destruction in case of war."

Details of Cost. The St. Lawrence route, Gen. Jadwin pointed out, could be deepened more economically than the other route. He dwelt specially on the fact that the St. Lawrence route could be built for navigation alone for $173,520,000 for a twenty-five foot waterway while the New York route, running from Oswego to Albany, would cost $509,000,000.

"The entire cost of the St. Lawrence project, from the great lakes to the ocean, including the installation of 5,000,000 horsepower of hydro-electric equipment, $620,000,000 to $650,000,000, is approximately $125 per horsepower, indicating that the power made available will justify the entire project were it feasible to develop and market so much power within a reasonable time," he said.

"While it does not appear feasible to develop and market so much power in the time within which navigation should be provided, the power that can be developed certainly constitutes a very valuable asset of the St. Lawrence route, which has no counterpart on the great lakes to the Hudson route."

Eventually a Safe Investment. Those who may receive the income from this power should find it a safe investment to provide the funds for the construction of the power structures. The power will ultimately more than pay for itself."

Gen. Jadwin said it was quite possible that ultimately both routes would have to be built if the northern middle west was to receive all the relief to which it was entitled.

SELECT GRAND JURY FOREMAN. John T. McBride, 6017 Kimbark avenue, a salesman, was selected as foreman of the December grand jury which was sworn in yesterday by Chief Justice William J. Lindsay.

Should it be impossible to reach an agreement with Canada for the construction of the St. Lawrence, Gen. Jadwin said the necessity of an outlet from the great lakes to the sea would in the near future make the New York route a practical plan.

St. Lawrence in Every Way Better. Gen. Jadwin was emphatic in recommending immediate construction of a route from the great lakes to the sea. He asserted that transportation handicaps under which the middle west is laboring make it essential to provide cheap transportation for that section of the country.

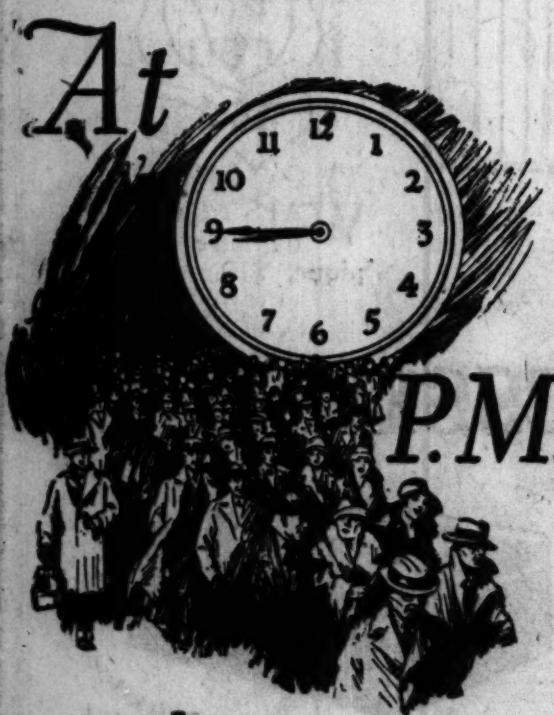

The St. Lawrence, Gen. Jadwin said is preferable to the New York route from virtually every standpoint. He said the St. Lawrence would be the cheapest to build, that power developed in the St. Lawrence will ultimately pay for the entire cost of the improvement both for navigation and power, and that it furnishes the shortest route to the export grain markets of Europe.

Summarizes His Opinions. Gen. Jadwin in his letter says: "The transportation handicaps under which the middle western portion of the United States is laboring should be relieved and a waterway suitable for ocean vessels connecting the great lakes with the sea should be provided. When the market for power warrants the installation of the maximum hydro-electric equipment on the St. Lawrence—five million horse power—the value of such power will be equal to, or greater than, the entire cost of the improvement both for navigation and for power. The power expenditures will, therefore, carry themselves and may be eliminated for purposes of general comparison."

Hudson as a Reserve Route. The route from the great lakes to the Hudson river is feasible from an engineering point of view, and its construction by the United States government would probably be justified in the near future, if the plans for the improvement of the St. Lawrence do not meet the joint approval of the legislative branches and executive heads of the two governments.

"The cost for navigation alone of the St. Lawrence waterway from the great lakes to the ocean for vessels of 25-foot draft is estimated at $173,520,000."

Many Children Look On.
Good Fellows, there are many little folks in Chicago who are daily watching the progress of this year's campaign. They realize its success means great happiness for them on Christmas eve or on Christmas when the march of the Good Fellow army is started and packages of Christmas cheer such as toys and candy and nuts and baskets of food are delivered to homes of poor families.

Many of the old time Good Fellows have already reported for duty. Those old timers wanted to be first on the job, they said, because they had found out from experience that the Golden Rule was right, that there's nothing like the joy of service, especially when that service is the kind that brings so much joy to a poor, half starved child.

Not Physical Starvation.
By "half starved" the Good Fellow who said that didn't mean physical starvation. No, he meant an entirely different kind—a sort of inward, spiritual starvation that little children get from constant hard knocks and contact with ugliness and squalor.

That's what that Good Fellow meant when he talked "starvation," and he said to tell all you other Good Fellows he knew what he was talking about.

Remember, Good Fellows, our campaign this year must be more extensive than ever, because we have more poor kids this year to supply with Christmas cheer. Report for duty today.

VARE FACES NEW SLUSH INQUIRY FROM SENATORS

New York, Dec. 6.—[Special.]—The attention of the senate committee investigating expenditures in the last campaign will again be turned to Pennsylvania, it was rumored today. The committee plans to look into a report that Ralph Beaver Strassburger of Norristown, Pa., was one of the outstanding supporters of Representative William S. Vare in his successful senatorial campaign. Just what effect Mr. Strassburger's testimony, if he confirms the rumor of his contribution, would have on the seating of Vare as senator, could not be learned tonight.

U. S. DESTROYERS HUNT MEXICAN GUNBOAT CONVOY

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Dec. 6.—The situation in Nicaragua is getting worse. President Adolfo Diaz, who heads the government recognized by the United States, is threatening to resign unless President Chamorro, whom he was to have succeeded, resigns.

The Nicaraguan government has offered Gen. Chamorro a diplomatic mission in Europe and $25,000. The general promises to reply within three days. Meantime, the American legation is worried.

Minister Charles C. Eberhardt is expected from Panama Saturday. Three destroyers from Guantanamo are patrolling the east coast on the lookout for the Mexican steamer Superior from Tampico, which is protected by two Mexican gunboats. The convoy is bound for Puerto Cabezas with troops and arms. United States Chargé d'Affaires Lawrence Dennis announced this afternoon that the United States would not permit the shipment of arms to Nicaragua for the recognized Diaz government until former President Chamorro retires.

25 GROUPS ASK BUDGET MAKERS FOR HIGHER PAY

Aldermen Stay Overtime to Hear Petitions.

Twenty-five groups of city employees, all of whom say they are underpaid, appeared before the council finance committee yesterday and asked for salary increases in the 1927 budget. The throng of petitioners was so large that the committee limited the time to five minutes, but even then was unable to hear them all. The committee met an extra hour, but when it adjourned at 6 p. m. several groups were still waiting.

Fire and Police Groups' Demands.

By far the largest groups represented were the fire and police forces, who ask for a $300 a year raise. Their spokesmen were W. S. Johnston and Michael Hooks, presidents of the policemen's and firemen's associations. In 1925, Mr. Johnston said, 48 cities gave raises to their policemen, and in 1926 44 cities. Chicago year after year has ignored them, he said, despite the increase in the cost of living. Representatives of the city's police women and police matrons asked that their salaries be put on a par with those of policemen.

Physicians Ask Increases.
The 130 physicians in the health department, who recently joined the Chicago Federation of Labor, asked increases of from $100 a month to $200 a month with an additional $75 for automobile upkeep.

Other groups appearing included ward superintendents of streets and alleys, water crib keepers, pumping station attendants, playground directors, sewer cleaners, health department nurses, bridewell matrons, moving picture censors, and food inspectors. All of the requests were taken under advisement.

Now It's the World War Veterans Who Are Aging

"It is necessary to replace the ageing world war veterans with intelligent men who will be trained for duty as reserve officers," Maj. F. M. Barrows, head of the department of military science at the University of Chicago, declared yesterday. He spoke at a luncheon of the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion. Maj. Barrows asserted his opinion that the vets are passing beyond the age where they are fit to serve as officers in case of a national emergency.

KELLOGG AWAITS PERU'S REPLY ON HIS ARICA SCHEME

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Secretary of State Kellogg acknowledged receipt of the Chilean note in reply to his recent proposal of Tacna-Arica today and was of the opinion that it amounted to "practical acceptance" of his plan. No indication yet has been received from Peru respecting its attitude on the proposal but Secretary Kellogg expected to hear from that government at an early date.

OF DEATH IN SURF
GIVES MYSTERYMining Engineer and Rich
Woman Victims.

San Jose, Fla., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Death of a mining engineer and a rich woman, victims of a mysterious poisoning, was the subject of a coroner's jury today in the case of Louis F. Sweeney, 44, cop-mine engineer of New York, and Mrs. Rabelais Malingot, 36, member of a wealthy family of Trinidad, South America. The bodies of the two were found floating in the shallow water a quarter of a mile from Venice late Saturday afternoon.

Testimony at the inquest was that Sweeney and Mrs. Malingot were members of a party which went to Venice, Tampa for a day's outing. They were bathing in the water, and then walked together to the beach. Sweeney returned to the pavilion, where he received two bottles from his satchel. The empty bottles later were found floating near the bodies.

As he left the pavilion Sweeney turned to the other members of the party. The onlookers saw the two men from the bottles, then leap into the water.

Shortly afterwards observers saw the bodies floating in shallow water and investigation disclosed both were dead. Sweeney was one of the best known mining executives in the United States. He was formerly secretary to J. F. Stearns, then engineer at the Panama Canal.

Mrs. Malingot is reputed to have been a woman of great wealth and to have known Sweeney for several years, having met him in South America. Search of the apartments occupied by the couple in separate hotels at San Jose, revealed no one had written asking relatives be notified "in case of accident."

DENIES SAYING
GRAIN EXHIBIT
ADULTERATED

J. C. Mitchell of Dahinda, Sask., who was recently quoted in Canadian dispatches to the effect that his exhibit of small grain at the recent Chicago International Hay and Grain show had been tampered with, denies having made such a statement, according to B. H. Heide, manager of the show.

Mr. Heide said yesterday that Mr. Mitchell had not even returned to Canada, as the dispatches indicated, but was here Saturday night. The dispatches quoted Mitchell and Herman Telle, a Dominion exhibitor who had won both the wheat and oats championships, as saying their exhibits had been adulterated, and that Mitchell had been robbed of second honors.

"Mr. Mitchell told me that he had made no such statements," Mr. Heide said. "He did say that he had had a suspicion that his exhibit might have been tampered with, but that he had no complaint to make, and that he had made no statement whatever about it."

TWO MEN ROBBED; LOSS $15. Bandits robbed two men early yesterday of a total of $15. Arthur Purvis, 4316 Greenwood avenue, was held up at Greenwood and Cullum avenues. Joe Barnard, a taxicab driver, was robbed of $9 in front of 2742 Concord place.

A New Word for Dictionaries

Acidophilus—Acidophilus are tiny organisms recently discovered by science. They are natural inhabitants of the human intestine, placed there at birth by nature to keep the bowels clean and pure.

With each added year of human life, their numbers diminish until they can no longer overcome the poisonous decay germs present in food, and intestinal putrefaction, "sets in." This happens sometimes even before childhood is passed and nearly always before middle age is reached in spite of all drugs.

ACIDOPHILUS

graying hair, dark circles under the eyes, yellow puffy complexion, a tired "Peppier" look and often the stooping posture distorts the appearance of countless victims. Now intestinal putrefaction may be forestalled. Re-supply the body with its natural acidophilus, secured and cultured from healthy human babies, is all that is required to banish intestinal putrefaction. As a simple and economical test just try taking two Moyer's Acid-O-Phil Tablets after every meal and at bedtime for four short weeks. You'll be surprised at how clear and firm your skin will become—at your improvement in looks and health. You'll have more strength and energy and feel like you've taken a new "bustle on life." Moyer's Acid-O-Phil Tablets are positively guaranteed to give you new health, beauty and energy, or your money back. Try them and you'll see there's nothing like it, so do not accept imitations or substitutes. You can get the genuine Moyer's Acid-O-Phil Tablets at all good druggists.

CHINA REDS KILL MANY AS CITY OF FOOCHOW FALLS

Drag Body in Streets;
Foreigners Protest.

FOOCHOW, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Foochow students who sympathized with the Cantonese swept through the city unrestrained after the southern army had routed the defending northern army and took advantage of the change in régime to wreak vengeance on their enemies. Several detectives who aided in convicting them of radical activities have been killed.

An outstanding victim was Chang Kuo-Hua, a Christian police official, who had been instrumental during the last year in the arrest of many leaders of the "Blood and Iron Band," a radical student organization. Chang Kuo-Hua fled to the office of the Osaka Kosen Kaisha, Japanese steamship company.

Drag Body in Streets. An all night battle ensued. The students set upon him with bombs, grenades, and pistols, but he defended himself valiantly until his ammunition was exhausted. Then he was captured and killed.

The following day the students paraded the body through the streets. The foreign colony was incensed and made an official protest. Authorities who have taken a hand at controlling the city have promised that Chang Kuo-Hua will be given a proper burial.

Merchants Refuse to Pay Taxes. PEKING, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Strikes, riots and radical agitation are following in the wake of the marching armies in China's civil war which has embroiled most of the provinces of the vast country.

Merchants, oppressed by militarist demands, have formed an association in the three provinces of Anhwei, Chekiang and Kiangsu to resist these levies of funds with a general strike and refusal to pay taxes. Nearly all of the American firms of Shanghai, from which the Cantonese a few months ago began their victorious northward march, are suffering from strikes or have been threatened with them.

Reds Appeal to League.

GENEVA, Dec. 6.—The Chinese problem loomed large on the league of nations horizon when the secretariat today received from the Kuomintang party, which is representative of the Cantonese forces, a communication stating that the Peking government no longer represented China and that the Nationalists regarded all unequal commercial treaties no longer applicable, and that they were to be abolished immediately. They announced that the transactions with the old Peking government are nonexistent and the claims of Belgium and other "imperialistic" governments are null and void.

The league officials admitted receiving the communication, but declared it was unofficial and had no recognized authority behind it.

Hankow Situation Better.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The British foreign office today received long reports from Hankow indicating that the Chinese situation is much improved. The threatened general strike has not materialized and the merchants and other employees in most cases have granted the demands of the employees. There are a few isolated strikes, but no disorders and the attitude toward the foreigners seems to be improved.

TOMBSTONE MAN KILLS HER MATE SO SHE WEDS HIM

Boston, Mass., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Crude dramas of the frontier unfolded today before the Probate court here, which is considering the claim of Mrs. Carlotta Cockburn of San Gabriel, Cal., to relationship with the late Lotta Crabtree, wealthy actress, and to right of control of the will which disposed of nearly $4,000,000.

There was the story of Mrs. Cockburn herself. The arrival of John A. Crabtree, whom she claims as father, and his wife, in the struggling town of Tombstone, Ariz., and her birth shortly afterward, her abandonment first by her father and then by her mother, and finally her adoption and education by the man who had been her father's partner in a livery business. Then there were the stories of Mrs. Mary J. Derwood, who escaped the murderous assault of her husband and married the man who killed him; and of Nelson S. Gilberson of San Francisco, who practiced medicine in Tombstone in the '80s.

Gilberson testified that it was common along the border for men to live with women who were not their wives. But in the case of Jack Crabtree, he declared, Crabtree always spoke of the woman and baby as his wife and child. "There were a few marrying people in Tombstone, you know," Gilberson explained.

Mrs. Derwood, in whose care the baby was left when the mother went seeking Crabtree, began her story at the time she was the wife of Mike Killen. Mike, she said, started shooting at her, and one of his bullets struck "Buckskin Frank" Leslie. So Buckskin Frank started shooting and he killed Mike Killen. Then she married Buckskin Frank.

Versailles Treaty.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

GENEVA, Dec. 6.—Germany's demand for abatement of interallied military control will not be considered unless the Berlin government accepts unchanged the league of nations' military control commission plan, it was stated today, after a series of private conversations between Foreign Ministers Gustav Stresemann of Germany, Aristide Briand of France and Sir Austen Chamberlain of Great Britain.

The further withdrawal of troops of occupation from the Rhineland will not be considered until Germany has satisfied the allies that it is carrying out the Versailles treaty stipulations and has satisfactorily answered twenty-two questions raised by the interallied control commission, it was declared.

Alleged violations of the treaty by the exportation of war materials and the reconstruction of the Königsberg fortifications on the Polish border have raised serious problems, it was said.

Express Hope of Agreement.

Following the league council session this morning, Dr. Stresemann and M. Briand conferred privately. Foreign Minister Vandervelde of Belgium, Sig. Scialoja, Italy's delegate and Sir Austen, met the German and French plenipotentiaries and illegal sections, respectively, the league's scheme which was formulated in detail in 1924, in which event the allies would be willing to promise suitable revisions at future council sessions. The question of the permanent control of the Rhineland also appears most difficult, with no change evident in the divergent German and French viewpoints.

HOOVER HOT ON TRAIL OF AN INTERNATIONAL RAG PICKERS' MERGER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—(AP)—An international rag pickers' combination, following along the plan of the British rubber and the Brazilian coffee producers, has been discovered in process of formation by commerce department agents.

Trade Commissioner Nash at Berlin informed the department today that the rag pickers of Europe had met in Paris to draw up regulations for controlling international trade.

American industry imports rags in considerable quantity for raw material. During the first eight months of this year Germany alone shipped 46,250 tons here for use in paper mills.

The meeting will be held in Berlin.

At a private session the council approved the appointment of new secretariat members, including M. Dufoeur, M. Peronne, and Baron Sigismund as undersecretaries. Mr. Jacklin of South Africa, as treasurer, succeeded Sir Herbert Ames of Canada. N. A. Nouda and Dr. P. Barandon of Germany were made members of the disarmament and illegal sections, respectively.

WIFE'S LAWYER PLANS SURPRISE FOR CARRINGTON

Chicago Trip Basis of New Charge.

Instead of a quiet settlement of their marital differences out of court, Col. Edward C. Carrington, millionaire manufacturer, formerly well known in national politics, and Mrs. Anna Walsh Carrington of New York declared open warfare in Chicago's courts yesterday.

Incensed at the husband's action in charging a love affair between Mrs. Carrington and her brother-in-law, Campbell Carrington, New York lawyer, also a millionaire, Attorney George L. Schein, representing the wife, last night subpoenaed three witnesses who will appear before Judge Thomas J. Lynch Friday.

Hints of Counter Charge.

The witnesses will testify, Attorney Schein said, that Col. Carrington was indiscreet in his conduct while establishing a residence in this city for the purpose of suing for a divorce.

"I won't try this case in the newspapers," Attorney Schein declared.

"So I won't give the names of the witnesses nor the details of their testimony. I will say that Col. Carrington is living in a glass house when he makes accusations of infidelity against his wife."

Col. Carrington, in the answer filed by his attorney, Frank J. Madden, denied his wife's charges of cruelty and nonsupport. In his turn he accused Mrs. Carrington of using abusive language to him, of striking, scratching, and kicking him.

Says Wife Boasted.

In addition Mrs. Carrington boasted of the attention, love, and affection she was receiving from the colonel's brother, the answer states. She admitted a love affair with the lawyer, the colonel said, and declared she wanted to rid herself of her husband so she could marry his brother.

The answer also contained a letter said to have been written by Campbell Carrington to Mrs. Carrington, in which she was termed "darling."

Take Year Old Baby to Jail with His Mother

New York, Dec. 6.—(Special).—Gregorio Perilli, a tailor, his wife Antonetta, and their year old baby went to jail today. Father and mother pleaded guilty to shoplifting. Perilli was sentenced to sixty days in the workhouse and his wife to fifteen days. There was no one with whom to leave the baby, so they took him along.

PONTIAC PRISON FILLED TO LIMIT, SHERIFFS TOLD

The Pontiac reformatory is so crowded with prisoners that I. M. Lieb, superintendent of the institution, which contains youths under 24 years of age for crimes, has written a letter to sheriffs throughout the state advising them that in the future he cannot receive any more inmates until more accommodations are provided. Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman received one of the letters yesterday and turned it over to Warden E. J. Fogarty of the county jail.

"Steel cages have been purchased to take care of the overflow," the letter says, "but it will take some time to get this purchase order through and cages delivered and cells erected."

The fact that paroles are not so easily obtained since the pardon and parole board inquiry, which resulted in Highton G. Chabouch succeeding Will Colvin as head of the parole board, is given by officials as the cause for the overcrowded condition at Pontiac.

I. C. CONDUCTOR KILLED.

MY ADVENTURES IN THE GOLDEN AGE OF MUSIC

By HENRY T. FINCK

(His Forty-three Years Musical Editor of the New York Evening Post)

An autobiography of a man who was probably the most brilliant writer and keenest critic of music in America. With the same flashes of wit and searching inquiry that characterized his musical criticisms, Mr. Finck examined his own life and gave us a volume to be prized and cherished by every music lover.

Brilliant Pen Sketches of Musical Celebrities

It is not too much to say that this is Mr. Finck's crowning achievement in literature. He recalls his early life, his romances, his college days, his wanderings in Europe, and his experiences on the Evening Post with a freshness and sustained interest that is altogether fascinating. There are reminiscences about Theodore Thomas, the de Reszkes, Patti, Caruso, Antonio Seidl, Emma Calvé, Nordica, Melba, and the others in that glorious galaxy of stars down to Maria Jeritza, Bori, Easton, Galli-Curci, Percy Grainger.

There is added importance attached to this volume in that it is the author's last work—the final proofs were received but a few days before he passed away on October 4th, 1926.

Crown 8vo, Cloth, 478 pages. 31 full-page illustrations. $5, net; $5.18, post-paid.

REPORT SHOWS GAIN IN CHICAGO HARBOR TONNAGE

Calumet Also Handled an Increase in 1925.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—[Special.]—Increased commerce in both the Chicago and Calumet harbors during 1925 was reported today by Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of engineers, in his annual report. For the same period, commerce on the Illinois and Chicago rivers decreased.

Gen. Jadwin disclosed that the engineering corps recommends the expenditure of $45,477,865 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, for new construction and maintenance work on the nation's waterways and harbors. Of this amount, it is estimated that $24,459,265 will be required for general rivers and harbors work.

Chicago Harbor Figures.

During 1925, the report shows, 2,129,620 tons of merchandise and 1,351,968 passengers passed through Chicago harbor. In 1924 the tonnage amounted to 1,658,087 and the passenger traffic was 1,090,119. The increased value of the 1925 commerce over that of 1924 was $33,725,880. This was largely due to greater tonnage in automobiles.

The increase in tonnage through Calumet harbor was due to greater activity in the iron and steel industry. Receipts of iron ore exceeded those of any year since 1915. The comparative figures disclose that 9,491,849 tons of freight, valued at $143,146,798, were handled in 1924 while 12,286,170 tons, valued at $162,172,037, passed through the harbor in 1925.

Finds Facilities Inadequate.

Gen. Jadwin said that the Chicago harbor was not entirely adequate for existing commerce. He recommended that the municipal pier be provided with freight handling devices and rail connections.

Where 122,776 tons of freight were carried on the Illinois river in 1924, only 24,080 tons were carried in 1925. The decrease in the Illinois river tonnage was laid to railroad competition. Gen. Jadwin recommended the expenditure of $127,000 on the Chicago harbor in the year ending June 30, 1926.

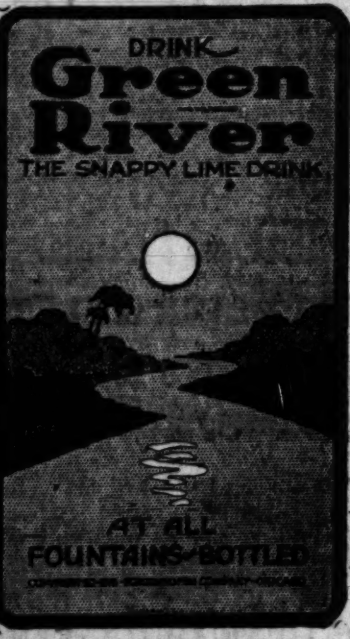

APOSTLES' BONES, SO SCRIPT SAYS, TO BE ON SALE THURSDAY

A set of twelve reliquaries containing fragments which, according to an accompanying explanation written on ancient parchment are bones of the twelve apostles, was discovered recently in the foreign section of the Gunther collection at the Chicago Historical society. They will be for sale at the society's building, Dearborn and Ontario streets, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The reliquaries, with the bones, are contained in a tooled leather case said to have been made for them in 1729 at the command of the archbishop of Milan. The parchment text found in the case is written in ecclesiastical Latin and signed by the archbishop, dated July 18, 1729. The archbishop declares these bones to be of the apostles and commends them to the care of a priest of Vienna named Fabius Maximilian Gavretty "to have and to hold to donate and display for the veneration of the faith."

Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Edith M. Bishop was taken into custody today for investigation in connection with the slaying of her husband, Luther Bishop, a state detective, who was shot to death at his home yesterday.

Two pistols, which it is said Bishop always kept at his side while he slept, were found today concealed in a bundle of clothes on the second floor of the Bishop home. Officials expressed the belief that the detective had been slain with these weapons. Both had been fired recently, police said.

GOES ON TRIAL AS MURDERER OF CANTON EDITOR

Canton, O., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Eleven tentative jurors were selected today at the opening of Patrick Eugene McDermott's trial for the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, slain on the night of July 15.

Opposition to capital punishment and opinions as to McDermott's guilt resulted in the dismissal of sixteen of the thirty-four veniremen examined.

When Common Pleas Judge Edwin H. Diehl dismissed court today five women and six men had been temporarily seated.

McDermott was charged with Mellett's murder after an investigation by county, federal, and special authorities during which it was asserted that Mellett's newspaper campaign against "The Jungle," Canton's underworld, resulted in the plot against his life. Mellett was shot down as he entered his garage.

"THE AMERICAN WEEKLY" IS THE MOST WIDELY READ MAGAZINE IN THE WORLD

BUILDERS OF CITIES

Out on the edge of town, where he used to play ball as a boy, Henry Thurlow's new factory is going up. Already its framework rises like steel lace against the sky. The staccato clangor of the riveters sounds endlessly. Trucks throng about it. An army of workmen swarms over it. It will more than double his output when completed.

Down in the heart of the city, Charlie Banks and Dave Caldwell are building the 15-story First National Bank Building. Arthur Watts and his syndicate are preparing to open their eighth business. Ed Stevenson's company has just completed its fourteenth moving-picture theater.

Like a strong tree, the city grows. Walter King adds forty new houses. Perry Potter's chain of restaurants extends itself indefinitely. Mark Hopkins and associates are letting contracts for a new hotel. Everywhere the lifeblood of the community flows richly and vigorously in fresh, expanding channels, new arteries of trade.

These men, and the millions like them, whose thought and enterprise have raised them above the common level, are the builders of America's cities. They are straight-shooting, progressive citizens, with their feet on the ground, and their eyes on tomorrow. Their brains, courage and integrity are shaping our national destiny.

These men—5,000,000 of them—read The American Weekly. Their wives and children read it.

Every Sunday, in fourteen of America's greatest cities, it influences one-fifth of the people in the United States! They read it because it is so alive, so progressive and forward-looking; because it is so modern and constructive; because—above all—it is interesting.

The American Weekly is beyond question the most widely read and powerful advertising medium in the world.

It reaches the sort of people who count—the doers, the builders of cities. Yet its rates, in comparison with its circulation, are phenomenally low. Its use is an extremely profitable investment. And it is the only national medium in which the advertiser can take a full newspaper-size page in color!

The American Weekly will solve your sales problem, quickly, effectively and economically. Write or phone today to the nearest office (see below) of The American Weekly, A. J. Kobler, President, for complete information.

The American Weekly is a magazine printed in newspaper form and distributed with the Sunday editions of the Hearst chain of newspapers in the fourteen American cities having one-fifth the total manufactures, three-fourths the total bank clearings, and one-third of the urban population of the United States.

PLAN ARREST OF DRY AGENTS FOR SHOOTING HUNTER

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 6.—(Special.)—Warrants will be issued tomorrow for George E. Pratt and E. L. Benway, prohibition agents, charged with shooting Charles Niedermire, 51, mail carrier, Friday night, mistaking him for a gun runner.

This was the answer today of Edgar C. Gordon, Monroe county prosecutor, to the statement of A. J. Hanlon, chief of the federal border patrol, who defended the two men for the shooting. Hanlon warned that all persons who do not submit readily to search by his men will be shot.

Returning from Duck Hunt. Niedermire was in a boat with Floyd W. Crooks, returning from a duck hunt when Pratt and Benway fired several shots at them.

"They never gave us a chance," Niedermire told Gordon today. "We weren't trying to run away, and we didn't give them any reason whatever for shooting at us."

"It is true I had a gun in the boat, but I made no effort to level it at them. At first we didn't know they were firing at us. Then they pumped two bullets into me."

Dry Chief's Side of Case. Pratt and Benway had informed that a boat of a certain description loaded with liquor was to pass near the point where they were stationed, Hanlon declared. "As the boat Crooks and Niedermire were in sight, the agents noticed a key and a man sitting high in the boat which talked with the description of the boat they were watching for. The agents called to them to stop."

"The boat was near enough to the shore and it was light, so that Crooks and Niedermire could easily see the men were officers. My men were Ben Brown, belts and displayed their badges. They fired ahead of the boat and in the air. The agents fired next at the boat and Niedermire was struck."

Lincoln C. Andrews, dry enforcement chief, was asked today in a telegram if he endorsed the shooting of innocent duck hunters by dry agents. "Most assuredly I do not endorse this shooting," he replied. "Innocent duck hunters are not within my jurisdiction."

SEEKS NATIONAL DRY POLL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—(Special.)—A nationwide referendum on modification of the Volstead act, sponsored by the federal government and intended as a guide to congress in future legislation under the eighteenth amendment, is proposed in the resolution introduced in the house by Representative Gallivan (Dem., Mass.) today. The question which Mr. Gallivan would submit to the voters is whether congress should amend the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of beverages not intoxicating in fact. Under the resolution the congress would be conducted by the states in accordance with their respective election laws and the results certified to congress by the governors. In states where the election laws do not permit such a referendum the resolution would empower the postmaster general and the secretary of commerce to operate through their agencies in registering the vote.

A WORD TO SHOPPERS

THE Christmas shopping season is on in earnest.

Street cars are carrying the largest daily loads in their history. Even the remarkable records of Eucharistic Congress riding are being exceeded.

The Surface Lines management has been preparing for many weeks in anticipation of this heavy demand. One hundred new cars have been added to the service. All equipment has been put in first class condition and all of it is in use.

It is evident, however, that serious congestion cannot be avoided when the usual rush hour crowds are augmented by hundreds of thousands of shoppers.

Under normal conditions the Surface Lines must carry more than half of the entire daily transportation load in an hour and a half in the morning and the same length of time in the evening.

Workers cannot choose their time. They must go and come during the rush hours.

Many shoppers, however, can do their shopping between 10 A. M. and 4 P. M. and thus avoid the busiest hours. By so doing they ride in greater comfort and help relieve congestion during peak load periods.

S. C.CALLES SAYS U.S.
ATTACKS MEXICO
VIA PROPAGANDADenies Charge That He Eyes Panama Canal.

(Copyright: 1926: By the New York Times.)
Mexico City, Dec. 6.—A Mexican newspaper man today put to President Calles the following question:
"Cablegrams have arrived from the United States instantly stating there is in that country certain propaganda supposed to be organized by the department of state. Certain veiled statements have been attributed to Undersecretary Ochoa. The statements have been made under his hand, and they endeavor to show that one of the dominating factors in the conflict with the government of Mexico is the bolshevism attributed to our government and the fear that bolshevism spreading southward would threaten the defense of the Panama canal. It would be of the greatest interest to know the opinion of the president."

President Calles replied, "It can be summarized in one word—propaganda. It is merely a propaganda which, if it is not slanderous, would be ridiculous. What sound mind could shelter the idea that Mexico, a country in the process of organization without an army for conquest and without even the shadow of a navy, would plan to threaten the defense of the Panama canal or the defense of other countries?"

Calles is a New Lie.
"It is not even logical to think that we who fight with sacrifice to put our house in order would become apostles of exotic doctrines. The propaganda of Mexican bolshevism is a new lie to discredit Mexico."

"The ideal of my government, which is the same as the ideal of my people, is to save the great mass of the population from misery and ignorance, to raise their social standards, to teach them a better system of dieting, to give them schools and a culture, to raise them to a higher degree of civilization, and make the nation more homogeneous."

A Christian Program.
"This program, when seen even with a minimum of sympathy, is a beautiful gift."

HUGE WALLED CITY,
BURIED FOR AGES,
UNCOVERED IN MEXICO

Mexico City, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Discovery of ancient ruins, arousing the hope of archaeologists that future excavations may reveal one of the most important buried cities of Mexico, is announced from Oaxaca. Traces of a city antedating recorded history have been found by explorers of the division of archaeology near the village of Quilotepec, state of Oaxaca.

Preliminary excavations indicate the ruins of a great ancient fortified city, with a series of huge walls enclosing many thousands, and a number of temples and pyramids similar to those used by the Toltecs and Aztecs for human sacrifice.

Find More Tut Treasures.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
CAIRO, Dec. 6.—Work is proceeding slowly on King Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb, says the official statement issued today, owing to the extreme fragility of many of the objects discovered. The liability of rapid deterioration when exposed to atmosphere necessitates immediate chemical treatment. The bulletin records the discovery of the Pharaoh's entrails in special jars enclosed in a huge sarcophagus and the unearthing of large quantities of royal jewelry, including a scepter, sandals, fan, and earrings together with numerous statues depicting the king performing devotional rites during his journey through the underworld.

soundly Christian program. Yet it is branded as bolshevism by our grateful propagandists. I am sure that if instead of holding such ideals I would devote myself to the easy task of continuing the work of Porfirio Diaz, backing only the rich of my country, scorning the poor, shooting the working men, squandering abroad the products of this land, paying papers to praise me and cultivate sterile flattery, I would obtain the false title of pacifier of this country and rebuilder of the nation."

—Good Solid Healthy Flesh, Too

In every town in America you can see skinny, scrawny men and women with deep hollows in cheeks, neck and chest who are more to be pitied than blamed. Doctors, Chemists, Scientists all agree that Cod Liver Oil is full of flesh-building, health promoting, strength increasing vitamins. They also agree and the whole world agrees that it is about the most evil smelling and nasty tasting, nauseating stuff that human beings come in contact with—it upsets most stomachs.

But now all that is changed—Cod Liver Oil comes in tablet form, sugar coated and as easy to take as candy. Druggists everywhere sell McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets with the distinct understanding that if any thin, lean, underweight man or woman takes them for 30 days and does not gain at least 5 pounds, the purchase price will be returned.

Just try them for 30 days, all you folks who need 5 or 10 pounds of good, solid flesh. They have rounded out the scrawny places in thousands of people—they will help you.

Stanley E. Howe, Atlantic City, N. J., writes that he gained 25 pounds in 6 weeks and further writes, "I sleep, rest, and eat and nothing bothers my nerves—I feel like a real man—thanks to McCoy's."

One woman, exceedingly thin, gained 10 pounds in 12 days; and don't forget that, being full of vitalizing vitamins, they do help feeble old folks who need a real tonic, and for thin, puny, undeveloped children—they quickly bring health, strength and increased weight. 50 tablets for 80 cents. He was fined $250 and costs by Judge Humphreys of the County court.

The possibilities of a growing need for gasoline and lubricating oil specially made for aviation use was apparent to the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) several years ago.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) appreciated then the importance of the aeroplane to commerce and industry and realized that it was only a question of time until the whole country would be knit together by an efficient air service.

The Air Mail was the first pioneering step in this direction. Its success is not yet fully understood by the general public, but business men everywhere appreciate the importance of a mail service that is swifter by hours and even days.

Europe has already shown us what can be done in passenger aviation and we are beginning to comprehend the possibilities.

Much progress has been made in developing the aeroplane as a commercial carrier. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana), keeping closely in touch with new developments and working always with thought for the future, foresaw the inevitable expansion and extension of commercial aviation in this country.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) realized that a new gasoline and lubricating oil scientifically adapted to the aeroplane would be needed. Work was begun immediately to meet this new need.

Today the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is supplying the major part of the gasoline and lubricating oil used for aviation purposes.

The development of gasoline and lubricating oil for aviation purposes is but one more evidence that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) progresses in step with the best thought and the newest ideas of the time, cooperating at every opportunity for the greater welfare and prosperity of the nation.

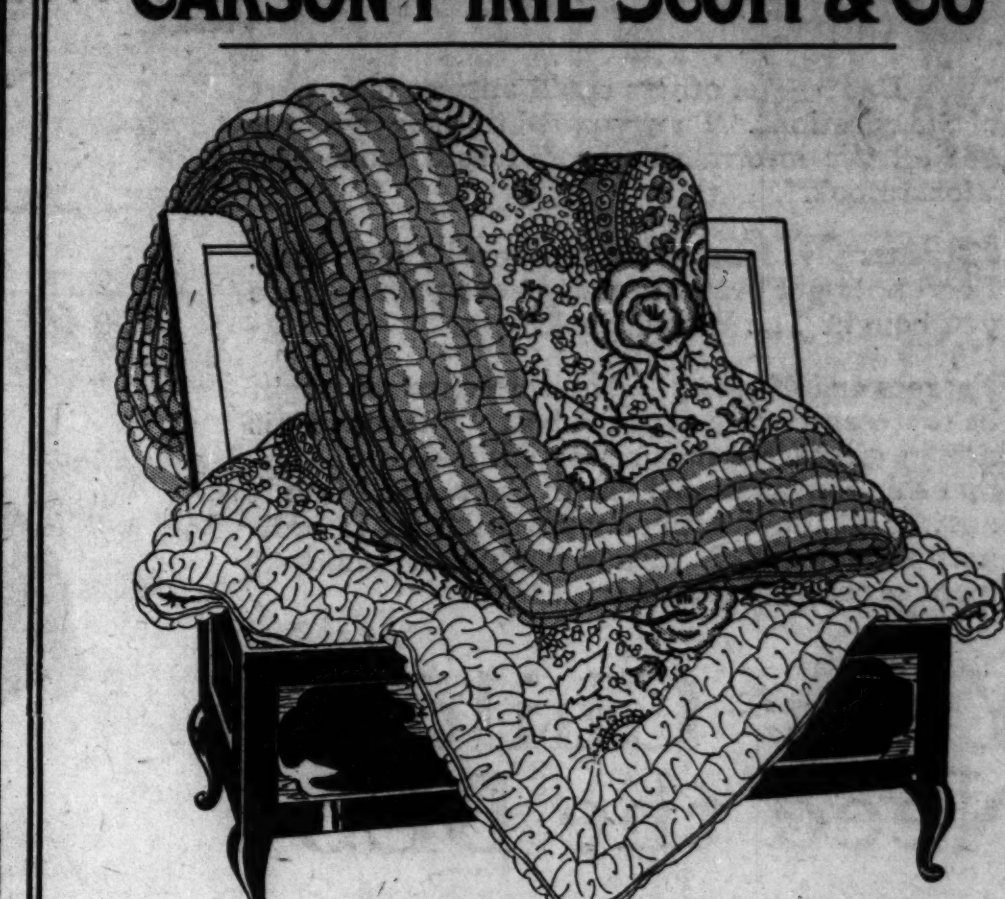

By forcing petroleum to yield still more products that are needed for the general good of mankind the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has translated its ideals of service into still larger terms of usefulness.

It is upon the rock of enduring service that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), has become one of the great institutions of the world. Truly great because it does a big job in a big way. It renders a comprehensive service, reckoning profits as secondary, firm in the belief that service brings its reward in exact ratio to the sincerity animating such service.

"So you were the only one who could answer all the questions"

"Yes, Dad! The others could answer only part of the questions. They wanted to know where I got all the information, and I said from The World Book."

"Teacher says I am on the honor roll this month. I certainly get better grades in everything since you bought The World Book."

Fathers and Mothers! Any reference set might be represented to you as the best. But the test is not in clever advertising or enthusiastic salesmanship, but in actual use in the home. Can it answer all the questions your child has in ordinary school work? Has it the highest endorsement of competent authorities?

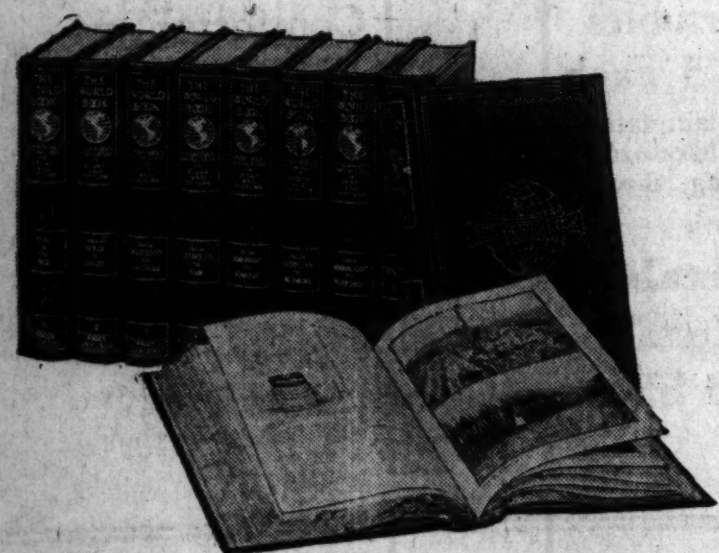

Your Children Need the BEST

Before you choose a reference set or encyclopedia for your children or for yourself be sure to see and compare

THE WORLD BOOK

The only encyclopedia equally useful to children and adults

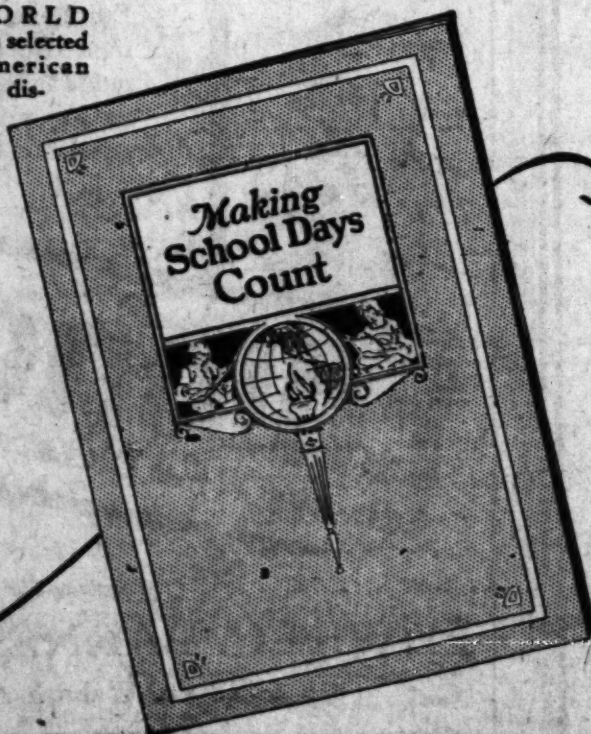

Why You Should Choose THE WORLD BOOK for Your Home

Endorsed by experts as "the best of its type." Contains nearly 7,000 pages—55% more material than other works of its type. Ten volumes. 5,100 pictures. Organized for quick and easy reference. Loose Leaf Annual keeps it permanently up-to-date.

THE WORLD BOOK is edited by Prof. M. V. O'Shea, Professor of Education, University of Wisconsin, assisted by a staff of 196 of America's leading educators. Professor O'Shea is widely known as an authority on child training and is author of many books for teachers, parents, and pupils.

Important Note: THE WORLD BOOK was selected by the American Library Association as the reference set to be displayed in its "Ideal Library" exhibited at the Philadelphia Sesqui-Centennial. Therefore THE WORLD BOOK was not entered in the commercial medal competition with other reference sets. It had already won the highest honor of the highest authorities.

Investigate before you buy!

"Best of its Type"

says BOOKLIST of the A.L.A.

In the book world the American Library Association is considered the "Supreme Court." Its decision, the result of careful investigation and deliberation by hundreds of librarians, is considered as final. The BOOKLIST of the American Library Association recommends THE WORLD BOOK as "the best of its type."

Ninety per cent of the public libraries in the United States use THE WORLD BOOK and find it the most effective of all reference books in its class.

THE WORLD BOOK is officially approved by the Elementary School Library Committee and also by the Joint High School Library Committee of the National Education Association.

"Better Arranged"

says Authorities on Children's Books

"The best children's encyclopedia, better arranged," say three authorities on children's reading, Jessie C. Fenton, Giles C. M. Ruch and Lewis M. Ter-man, in their book Children's Reading.

For definite reference work, the arrangement of THE WORLD BOOK makes it preferred to any other work of its type. This is recognized by such authorities as Isadore Mudge of Columbia University, Linn Jones of Iowa, and Carl B. Roden of the Chicago Public Library. Mr. Roden has said, "THE WORLD BOOK comes nearest to being a real encyclopedia in miniature."

Dean Nathaniel Butler, University College, University of Chicago, says, "THE WORLD BOOK is the best and most practical family encyclopedia of which I have any knowledge."

First Place in Schools

according to Educators

THE WORLD BOOK has received 93% of the official state approvals given in the United States—far more than any other reference work.

Practically every city in the United States has adopted or approved THE WORLD BOOK for use for school children. It is definitely recommended for use in connection with various state courses of study. It is specifically recommended by the writers of numerous text books as a supplement to those texts.

The librarian of a Pennsylvania State Normal School writes, "I sent six sets of encyclopedias to a certain room for a one-month test together with 100 questions for them to look up. The teacher and pupils all decided that THE WORLD BOOK was the best."

Give Your Child THE WORLD BOOK for Christmas!

It is a wonderful gift—one that will last for years. Moreover, it is a gift that can be used by the entire family. When you have bought THE WORLD BOOK you have bought all that you need for a lifetime in the way of a reference set. It is kept constantly up to date by a Loose Leaf Annual.

It is a fine thing to give a reference work to your child for Christmas, but do not be satisfied with anything less than the best! No matter what other set you may already have you need THE WORLD BOOK.

Tropic warmth and healthful study in the schools of Coral Gables, Florida

This is a portion of Coral Gables' Elementary School system. The five artistic units in this group are so designed that classrooms can be thrown wide open to the warm sunshine and fresh air. Constantly increasing enrollments are causing the construction of new elementary and high school units each year in Coral Gables. Photograph November 1, 1926.

This is the first building completed for the University of Miami in Coral Gables. The University opened October 15, 1926. Within its student body of 980 are organized all of the many student activities which go with modern university life and culture. Photograph November 1, 1926.

This is the new building of the Coco-Plan Woman's Club, now being completed at an approximate cost of $100,000. Nineteen social, civic and cultural organizations are active in Coral Gables. Photograph November 1, 1926.

WHILE your sons and daughters spend the winter school months in steam-heated classrooms, 3133 sun-browned children in Coral Gables are pursuing their studies in classrooms wide open to the sunshine and warmth of the only American Tropics. Outside of study hours, while your sons and daughters brave the chill rigors of wintry winds, of alternate freezings and thaws, the children in Coral Gables are growing sturdy in summer sunshine—in the swimming pools, tennis courts and playing fields.

You can escape winter without cheating your children—send them to school in Coral Gables. There are nine educational institutions, from kindergarten to university, where your children can secure instruction under the guidance of educators of the highest academic standing and experience. Here you and your children will find congenial friends from your own home state, for Coral Gables' population is a veritable cross-section of American citizenship. More than thirty states are represented among the newcomers, whose sons and daughters are this year for the first time numbered among the school population of Coral Gables.

Among the private schools in Coral Gables are several of renown. St. Joseph's Academy, a branch of the famous old St. Augustine school for girls and young women. The Coral Gables Military Academy, whose popularity has required the doubling of its facilities. The Montmare School for Girls, a branch of the school of the same name of Lake Placid, N. Y. The Coral Gables Elementary Schools are considered the finest in Dade County. On its 15-acre campus the first three buildings of the Ponce de Leon High School group are completed and in use. Four more are planned. The excellence of these public schools is well indicated by their growth. 657 new pupils are enrolled this year who were registered elsewhere last term. 281 of these are from other states. In the high school alone are over 100 newcomers from northern states.

The new University of Miami, opened on October 15th, has long been planned as a great educational center for southern United States and Latin-America. Already 980 students are enrolled. A faculty of distinction has been further enriched through the good-will of America's great universities. Several have loaned this new seat of learning some of their foremost educators.

All winter long in Coral Gables you can enjoy golf, swimming, tennis, boating, riding, racing, and the charming dances and social functions of the country clubs with only the palms and tropic skies overhead. Here are spiritual and cultural as well as physical enjoyment—and your children can pursue their studies in a climate of unrivaled healthfulness.

There is a wide range of accommodations and prices in hotels, apartments and homes. Inquire at our office at 164 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, or write direct to Coral Gables Corporation, Dept. CT-2, Coral Gables, Florida. Your nearest railroad or steamship agent will welcome your consulting him.

The Ragged Edge

By Henry C. Rowland.

SYNOPSIS.
Bengal Dodd takes his new yacht, Gunga, to Bermuda on her maiden voyage. She is anchored in the harbor at Hamilton. A young girl in a bathing suit unconsciously comes on board and introduces herself to Dodd as Carillon, without mentioning her last name. She tells Dodd he has been a hero to her all her life.

INSTALLMENT III.
A PROPOSED VOYAGE.
"That sounds as if you were planning some sort of getaway yourself, Carillon, and to make me participate in it?"
"Well, if you were willing to risk that for a man you owed nothing, why shouldn't you for a girl to whom you owe a lot? If you hadn't fumbled the ball and lost me my bet, I mightn't have become a pearl diver."
"How deeply have you dived?"
"Close to the bottom. At least, they'll tell you that."
"Then they shall be asked to prove it. Do you happen to know the Rigels?"

His question was prompted by Carillon's having swung round to stare at Boyd and his guests in the yacht's gig, just going alongside and having come, evidently, from the opposite shore of the harbor. Carillon sat straightly, watching them.

"I know them a lot better than they will ever know me," she said, absently, then asked abruptly: "I'd like to look over your boat."
"My cordial invitation for you to do so includes your chaperone."
"Play safe, don't you, Bengal?"

"About some things. If you had done so you might be in Palm Beach now, instead of sleepy old Bermuda."
"I'm rather glad to be here, at this moment. You are just the sort I had imagined you."
"Since I was your childish hero, thanks awfully. They don't often stand the test of time."

"Nor that of the self-sacrificing devotion to their worshipper."
"After all, they are merely lay figures on which to drape an ideal," Bengal observed.

"Fraid so." She was still staring at Rigels as she spoke. "Why don't those highbrows go below? So many in one bunch is a blot on the background."

"Look at me, then. I'm anything but that."
"You are a sort of policeman, and that's worse."

"No longer, nor ever again."
"One can never tell. Once a cop, always a cop, at heart. Anyhow, it's a lot more interesting than goggling at the white Indians of Darien, and bones and fossils and statues on Easter Island, and the Christian missions of Polynesia, with a lot of doped up Kanakas singing 'From Greenland's Icy Mountains,' as that tiresome crowd intends to do."

"It seems a worthy and useful objective for a yachting voyage. Better than going ashore and getting drunk."

"Yes, if not compulsory. But it's a bit wearing on the nerves of a temperamental person if she happens to be young, and a woman, to be shipmates with a foursome of young savants set up so straight they rake aft."

"Are you speaking of Miss Boyd? I thought she was a savant, too."
"She is, of sorts. An expert in rock crystals, particularly precious ones. Diamonds and rubies, and sapphires and emeralds. She collects them. Haven't you heard about her?" Carillon shot him a malicious gleam from her shal water eyes.

"No. Is she a friend of yours?"
"Anything but. I'm surprised she's not known to you by reputation. You can't have any friends up at the hotel."

"Haven't yet made rounds there." Bengal looked at her a little puzzled. With all his keenness for placing people, or perhaps because of it, he would never have suspected that such a high endeavor ship as Rigels, and commanded by so correct a man as Granville Boyd who was his own master and navigator, could include in its complement this sea-green Undine who was paying him a call. As for her being Boyd's sister, the idea was too preposterous to have entered Bengal's head. He could not have seen so sedate a disciplinarian as Boyd appeared to be permitting it.

Glancing then at the yacht, Bengal saw that Boyd and his guests had suited themselves under the quarterdeck awning, their backs to Gunga, and were in the path of sunshine glittering on the dancing water. Bengal noticed at the same time that a big bearded viking of a Swedish quartermaster who was hauling the gig out to the end of the boat boom appeared to be staring in his direction and making curious gestures, that had about them something suspicious.

"What's the matter with that old Swede sailor?" he asked of Carillon. She laughed. "He is trying to coax me over there."
"Coax you over there?"
"Yes. That's Jansen, my sailor. He is also my sorely tried guide, counsellor, and friend, nurse, intercessor, and scapegoat, when I break out occasionally, like just now. He brought me up from babyhood. We've always had some sort of yacht, and Jansen."

Carillon was interrupted by a sudden commotion of the group on the quarterdeck of the Rigels. Boyd had sprung suddenly to his feet and was staring wildly across at Gunga. He barked an order at Jansen, who began to haul the gig back alongside in a scared and hurried way. Behind Boyd, the three savants were also staring, rigid as if petrified.

Bengal began to do a little staring, himself. But before he could speak, Carillon rose lightly to her feet, like a gull taking wing. She did not slip and sidle over side, in the fashion of a mermaid so much suggested by that upper section of her, but sprang lightly atop of the after cabin house, which was rather well raised.

"An 'ole, Bungle. It's all your fault, for losing me that bet so many years ago. But don't worry. I'll tell old Granny that I boarded you unasked and even despite your protests. I need a friend, just now, and may ask you to rally round. So I'll forgive you that last bet on one condition."

"What's that?"
"Ask my brother if he'd mind your tagging along after us. I don't think he'd object. You made a hit with him, and besides he said that it would be interesting to see how these two opposite extremes of seaboard would check out on a long deep water run. He had an argument about it last night with Jim Howland. Know Jim?"

"I know who he is. Yachting fan."
"That's the bird. He's up at the hotel with his daughter. Jim favors your brand beamed light draught type. Better sign him on and come along. He'd go like a shot. Crazy about boats but hasn't any money any more."

She gave him a wave and slipped Rigelsward like a green sea otter. It was this same Jim Howland who gave Bengal rather more than a thumbnail sketch of Carillon Boyd.

"They ought to hang a red light on her, and a code flag hoist MOZ. High Explosive, Keep Off." If she was my sister I'd sink her and put a red and black obstruction buoy over the spot. Carillon is only twenty-four and in the last six years she's torped three good men to my knowledge, and the Lord knows how many without it."

"What's her technique?" Bengal asked.
"She's a constitutional and ruthless flirt. Carries on to the point of getting herself engaged, ring and everything, then puts her bomb aboard and blows off. A dull concussion, a plunge, when the walelets ruffle on over the spot where the ill-starred fiancé has been."

"Do the rings and things go back?"
"They do not. If Gunga was a millionaire, they'd say that she was out on the rocks, a pearl diver. And they'd be right."

A Tear Drops Among Laughs in War Comedy

'Corporal Kate' Realistic Picture of War Days.

"CORPORAL KATE"
Produced by De Mille corporation.
Directed by Paul Sloane.
Presented at the State-Lake theater.
THE CAST.
Kate Vera Reynolds
Beck Julia Faye
Evelyn Mabel Coleman
Jack Kenneth Thompson
Petipian George Grandell

By Mae Tinee.

Good morning! This little picture with a war background gives you a more real idea of what went on, over there, than have many of the more pretentious spectacles of the kind. The gallant spirit behind the fighting and the tragedy and the laughter of that terrible time is reflected in the work of the players who make "Corporal Kate" a film that you feel in your heart.

It's a comedy drama for a long stretch. There isn't a "war" in it. "Give me a real hug, Kate!" Kate's soldier begs after the armistice has been declared. But Kate can't.

"War's over, soldier!" says one maimed lad in the hospital to another. And the other who will never walk or speak again, nods.

Things like that. "Corporal Kate" is plain. Kate, a maid, and Beck, the cashier of the barber shop where both are employed, get up a little act and apply for permission to go overseas as entertainers. They are accepted and it is with their experiences in France that the story deals.

As usual little Vera Reynolds proves herself a darling and a clever actress. Here Kate O'Reilly is one devastating Irishwoman. Julia Faye as her pal, Becky Ginsberg, is good too. Kenneth Thompson as the soldier man both girls love, is a decidedly attractive lead and all minor parts are played mightily well.

The picture has "atmosphere," plenty of action, laughs, and a tender tear in the eye.

Bright, Light, and Snappy Is This One with Bebe

"STRANDED IN PARIS"
Produced by Paramount.
Directed by Arthur Rosson.
Presented at the Chicago theater.
Julie McFadden Bebe Daniels
Robert Van Wagon Earl
Countess Pasada Ford Sterling
Countess Pasada Mabel Julienne Scott
Her Bedouin Tom Ricketts
Mrs. Van Wagon Helen Dubar
Mrs. Halsted Ida Darling
Petipian George Grandell
Schwab Andre Lasoy

Again you behold Bebe Daniels in hot water. Lots of it. In other words, you find her traveling under false pretenses, and the last thing in the world she would care to be is false and that which she has no desire to do is to pretend. Yet, there is she—Julie McFadden, shop girl, greeted as the Countess Pasada and accorded a deference and a number of other things that, taken collectively, affect her in a manner sad to contemplate.

Julie is a New York timekeeper when the story opens. I mean she punches a time clock—morning, noon, and night. She encounters on one of her mooning a gallant youth who is a booklet advocating concentration. "Put finger to brow, concentrate on what you want, and presto—it's yours!" says the booklet.

Flower on brow, Julie wishes for a ticket to Paris and gets it. But from that time on finger on brow plays truant, and—see piz.

"Stranded in Paris" is exceedingly light, vurr' merry, and furnishes the members of the cast with plenty to do, especially Miss Daniels, who is in her usual excellent form. She has a nice leading man who, from a right profile viewpoint, looks at times exactly like the late Rudolph Valentino.

It is a pleasing and substantial person who knows how to make love admirably.

Ford Sterling has a role he knows how to manage, and this may be said of the roles and folks of the entire cast.

Bright, light, snappy, and entirely improbable is "Stranded in Paris." A film that will go great with musical comedy houses. For its plot is a musical comedy plot, which means there ain't no plot to speak of.

Methodist Pastors Refuse Indorsement of Anti-Saloon League

An attempt yesterday to obtain adoption of a resolution "to stand by the anti-Saloon league in the future as in the past" was denounced as a "whitewash" by Dr. M. Pennewell, pastor of the Gary Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, Whetstone, Ill., and president of the Methodist ministers, at their meeting in the Chicago temple.

The resolution was introduced by the Rev. W. S. Fleming, superintendent of the Illinois Civic League, and was signed by several ministers among them Dr. John Thompson, pastor of the Chicago temple church, who had on a previous occasion offered the motion to table a resolution of the same import introduced by Mr. Fleming.

"To say we will stand by the Anti-Saloon league in the future as in the past," said Dr. Pennewell, "will be in the nature of a whitewash. We have been a main simply because he is politically dry, regardless of his moral character. This course of action will not put the issue in a position to command the support of the church and where it cannot be attacked by its enemies. Its work must be clear, open, and above board."

A substitute introduced by the Rev. Howard P. Buxton, Riverside, prevailed that an executive session of the ministers' meeting be called during the holidays to review the entire situation with representatives of the Anti-Saloon league invited to present their side of the case.

The second performance of "La Cenerentola" at the Auditorium last night brought with it a sense of relaxing elasticity which made the whole rendition considerably better than the first. Unannounced, Louise Loring took the important role of Lisabetta in place of the indisposed Edie Norena, and did it with lovely voice and pliant poise. As before, Luigi Montanaro gave a brilliant impersonation of Nerl, Antonio Cortis of Giansetto, and Claudia Munio of Ginevra. E. M.

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question, E. C. Pennington, care Illinois Steel company, 208 South La Salle street, was awarded $5.

The Question.
Would you prefer to receive a gift at Christmas or a check covering its value?

Where Asked.
Michigan avenue and Adams street.

The Answers.
Miss Georgia Connors, 634 Fullerton

parkway stenographer:
—I'd rather receive a gift, because when one receives a gift one knows there is thought behind it, that the giver has expended time and energy on something in effort to please the recipient. That's what makes a Christmas gift what it is. A check is so cold.

O. E. Malick, 322 North Oakley boulevard, law clerk:—That's a puzzle. If I knew the gift would be a valuable one I would take the check, as I might not need the article. An article that's of no value is all right, but there are so many things that one really values.

Mrs. Richard A. Connell, Sr., 6533 Sheridan road, housewife:—A check, for one can then purchase exactly what one would enjoy most. In receiving an entire family, a check is ideal, because of the distribution that can be made of it. For charity a check is to be preferred.

A. R. Stevenson, 2117 North Rockwell street, salesman:—You can simply say that it is a Scotchman answering your question, and if the reader knows anything about the psychology of a Scotchman, they will know the speaker's answer. And being a Scotchman, I won't waste any paper in going into unnecessary details.

Mrs. E. W. Hennessey, 841 Galt avenue, housewife:—A check, I have several gifts to make, and there is anything left over from what I would like to spend for myself. It would come handy in helping out on these outside gifts. In that way I would be sure to get what I want.

Mrs. E. W. Hennessey, 841 Galt avenue, housewife:—A check, I have several gifts to make, and there is anything left over from what I would like to spend for myself. It would come handy in helping out on these outside gifts. In that way I would be sure to get what I want.

Here's a Unique Way of Employing Fringe5350

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondent.]

—Here's a throw-back that represents an advance in style. For a more original way of arranging that high neckline for an evening frock could hardly be devised. From one hip is thrown a strip of long fringe. It is drawn around the neck back over the other shoulder and—presto!—a decorative treatment of the frock's upper section is achieved.

Georgette of Chanel-belle fashions the body of the frock and the fringe which covers the entire skirt, while the front of the waist is of matching blue. This graceful trimming continues in high fashion. Sometimes contrasting with the frock, but more often matching it, silk fringe appears in every color and is much stressed in black. Bead fringe is no less important, especially around the shaded variety.

A delightful frock in a certain smart shop reminds the observer of one of those beautiful seventeenth century

chandeliers. Over an orchid silk slip of delicate lustrous hang, long fringes of beauty cut crystals. One's impulse to rush in and buy it should, however,

be checked until an affirmative answer can be made to these questions: Am I either a dazzling blonde or a striking brunette? Am I a tall, willowy type? For the effect of graceful simplicity is lost unless the brilliant complexion is worn by just the right individual.

Less exacting are those tiered and ruffled skirts already appearing with the slightly raised waist line advocated by a number of mid-season openings.

Another model suited to the average

hips and the skirt cut circular in front.
